LABOR DAY.

Prospects of an Immense Turn-Out

Of Toledo's Sons of Toil—Six Divisions of Men on Foot—The Picnic at Bellevue.

Labor day on Monday promises to be better observed than formerly. There has been more interest among the unions, and a friendly rivalry exists as to which one will make the best showing. As a result some fine displays will be seen. Many of the banners to be carried are of costly design, and on the whole Toledoans may anticipate a rare sight.

While there is much interest in the parade, the picnic at Bellevue park will not be forgotten.

The parade will move at 1 o'clock, under the direction of Grand Marshal A. G. Otto, who will be assisted by Louis Kimmerlin, Mut Revels and Fred Benne. The column will move in the following order:

FIRST DIVISION.
Grant Taylor, Marshal.
Squad of Police.
Band.
Toledo Cadets.
Companies A, C and H, Sixteenth Regiment.

Labor Notes.

Nothing save Labor day matters were discussed at the plasterers' meeting last night.

Woodworking machinists will be in line Monday. Several new members were admitted last night.

The lathers completed arrangements for Monday at their meeting last night. The boys will make a good showing.

The linemen met in regular session last night at Tinners' hall. A great exhibition will be made in the parade on Monday with the paraphernalia used in their daily work. Mr. June Smith will purchase the banner and elegant badges have been secured.

The Clerks' Mutual Protective union admitted four new members last night. Another determined effort to attain success in the early closing movement is to be put forth, with fair prospects of winning. The union will participate in the parade on Monday, meeting at Elk's hall at 12:45.

QUIET AND ORDER

Has Again Been Restored in Chili.

No Action Taken on the Coming Election.

Brazil and Peru Congratulate the Victors.

Evidence That the Defeated Parties Were Robbers.

A Story of Egan's Bravery in Protecting Citizens—His Crookedness Denied by Balmaceda Supporters.

New York, Sept. 5.—A cablegram to the Herald from Santiago says that affairs in Chili have almost settled down to the ante-bellum state of quiet and order.

There has been nothing decided as yet regarding the elections and the establishment of a constitutional government. It will take several weeks at least before the necessary arrangements for this can be completed and in the meantime the junta will administer the affairs of the country.

The governments of Brazil and Peru have officially congratulated the junta on the victory of the congressional party and the restoration of peace.

A decree has been issued by the junta, announcing that the notes issued during the revolution by Balmaceda would be recognized as legal by the new government.

An investigation of the banks show that many of Balmaceda's officials had taken care to pretty well feather their nests. Balances ranging from $20,000 to $1,000,000 are carried in the names of those who were known to be poor before the beginning of the trouble. Such balances will all be confiscated.

The Herald's correspondent has interviewed members of the junta and leaders of the opposition as well as Balmaceda's ex-officials. One and all agree that Mr. Egan has done much to save the credit of the United States. It is said a mob visited the United States legation on the night of August 29th and demanded that Minister Godoy's brother be given up to them. Mr. Egan went out and told them that Senor Godoy was under the protection of the flag of the United States, and that the first man who attempted to enter the door would be shot. His calm bearing and determined tone awed the mob and they left cheering for the flag.

Wm. McKenna and Senor Ybanez, both Balmaceda supporters, deny positively that Mr. Egan had any connection whatever with any nitrate scheme. They say that Col. North, the nitrate king, was the cause of the revolution.

FOUND HIS DEAD BODY.

Evidence of a Crime Unearthed at Fostoria.

A Bootblack's Remains Discovered in a Target Box—The Police are Investigating.

Fostoria, O., Sept. 5.—Last evening while Dick Enerine, a small boy, was going for his cows, he discovered the remains of a boy in a target box, built for rifle practice near the T. & O. C. depot. He saw clothing through the cracks, and, on climbing up and looking in, found the body of the boy in a cramped position, which indicated strongly that he had been thrust there. His head was much lower than his feet, and cramped to one side. Upon being taken out of the target box was evident he had been dead several days. He was at once identified as Eddie Metz, a 13-year-old bootblack, of Tiffin, formerly of Upper Sandusky, who has been here for a few weeks.

He was last seen on Wednesday. The night watchman of a sawmill and George Huth, who lives a few blocks away from where the boy was found both claim to have heard two shots fired at about 3 o'clock Thursday morning, the latter claiming to have heard them in his immediate neighborhood.

No one knew who did the deed or why it was done, but everything points to the fact that the boy was shot, whether intentionally or accidentally cannot be told, and carried to the place where he was found.

HARD DOSE FOR EGAN.

He Has Been Instructed to Recognize the New Government.

New York, Sept. 5.—The Herald's Washington special says the president has instructed Minister Egan to recognize the new government in Chili.

ILLINOIS GUARD.

Washington, Sept. 5.—"The national guard of Illinois is a fine body of men and has made very creditable progress," says Capt. E. G. Mathey, of the Seventh United States cavalry, in a report submitted to the war department to-day. He highly commends the officers and men for their earnest efforts to comprehend and discharge their duties. He notes with satisfaction the elimination of the display element with a corresponding growth of military knowledge. He suggests that the guard could be materially strengthened by the addition of cavalry and artillery which require much time for organization and would be of great value in time of disturbance. It is also recommended that in future encampments the regiments be encamped separately.

PROCTOR HAS RESIGNED,

And Steve Elkins May Succeed Him.

As Secretary of War He Could Greatly Aid His Seal Company's Work.

New York, Sept. 5.—A special to the Press from Washington says it was reported last night on what was considered good authority that Secretary of War Proctor has sent his resignation to President Harrison, to take effect on September 30.

The same authority says that Stephen B. Elkins, of New York and West Virginia, will assume the duties of the war office on October 1 by the appointment of the president.

OPPOSED TO WHITE.

He Talked Too Much To Be a Candidate.

New York, Sept. 5.—It is now an open secret that the gubernatorial boomlet of Andrew White has collapsed.

It is singular that the chief kickers against White have been the followers of Warner Miller, the Herkimer statesman.

Mr. Miller is now in London, and has had no opportunity to advise his followers. It has been announced that Mr. White was willing to accept the nomination provided the platform adopted at the Rochester convention pleased him.

"I think the republican convention at Rochester," said Congressman Burleigh, "will be quite able to adopt a platform for republicans."

"Then some of the republican leaders learned that the democratic newspapers were quietly getting ready to jump on Mr. White because of his views about a property qualification for voters. These things make the republican leaders pause. They believe Mr. White to be a strong man in many ways, but, as one very succinctly said, 'White has talked too much through his hat, and it would not be good politics to nominate him.'"

BLAINE'S RETURN.

Augusta, Me., Sept. 5.—It is announced here that Mr. and Mrs. Blaine and Hattie and James G. Blaine, jr., will leave Bar Harbor about the 13th inst., and come to Augusta to occupy their residence on State street for three weeks, returning to Washington early in October.

WILL TAKE A TRIP.

Washington, Sept. 5.—Secretary Proctor left this morning for Marblehead, Mass. He will remain there until Monday, when, being joined by Quartermaster-General Batcheller and Lieutenant Howard, he will start on a tour of inspection of military posts in the west.

FIRE AT WAUSEON.

Wauseon, Sept. 5.—(Special)—Fire yesterday afternoon nearly destroyed the residence of ex-Recorder Bloomer. The goods and furniture were badly damaged. Loss $1,000 to $1,500. Fully insured.

REPORTS FROM THE TYPHOON

Miles of Beach Strewn With Wreckage.

Interesting News Brought to San Francisco by the Japanese Steamers.

San Francisco, Sept. 5.—An account of the typhoon of July 18 published in the Hong Kong Express says the British gunboat Tweed was driven ashore against the well of the naval yards at Kowloon. A gun broke loose and smashed a good deal of her deck hamper. When the vessel struck one wall a hole was made in her hull and she quickly filled and settled down. The crew got safely ashore with the exception of Seaman John Urjohn, who fell overboard, breaking his neck.

At Yaumiti the beach was strewn with wreckage, and it is calculated that over fifty junks were destroyed. The village of Yaumiti was flooded. So far as is known the loss of life did not exceed four or five. At Hong Kong the damage was not very great.

Japanese advices to August 20 state that in consequence of the heavy rains from the 1st to the 3d of August various rivers overflowed and several towns were flooded.

The papers state that a personal encounter which occurred on the streets of Tokio, August 20, between J. F. Holstein, a European, and one Juonca Sorajichi will probably furnish further irritation against foreigners. According to one statement Holstein was passing along the street when two boatmen passed carrying their oars on their shoulders.

One of the oars grazed Holstein who it is stated angrily reproached the boatman. Juonac, who was standing by, joined in the discussion, whereupon Holstein struck him over the head with his cane. Juonac struck Holstein in return, wounding him on the head and shoulder with a stick. Holstein complained to the vice consul and Juonac to the Japanese procurator.

A Japanese paper attacks the imperial postoffice department, alleging careless handling of the mails and also intimates that the privacy of the mails had not been regarded.

Comments of the native press on the fact that the salaries of the cabinet ministers have never been reduced in the same manner of the other employes, still continue. It now appears, the papers say, the ministers have had an allowance of about $100,000 from the emperor's private purse.

A native paper gives a list of all papers, the publication of which had been suppressed since July on account of their menacing public peace.

KILLED BY A BOY.

Outlaw Murray Will Cause No More Trouble.

He Forced A Boy to Go With Him on a Murderous Journey and the Boy Shot Him.

Jacksonville, Fla., Sept. 5.—Harman Murray, a notorious colored outlaw, who has defied the authorities for nearly a year and terrorized a wide section of country, was killed by Hardy Early, a colored lad of 17. The killing occurred in a swamp near Archer, Fla. Murray called on Early about 4 o'clock and ordered him to go with him to Archer, where he said he was going to "kill some crackers" and then leave Alachua county.

Early did not want to go and said he had no gun, but Murray took Early to the latter's brother's house and made him produce a double-barreled shotgun. Both barrels were loaded with buckshot, and Early put 15 more in each barrel.

The two then started toward Archer. Having to pass through a swamp on the way, when they got into the swamp Early pretended he did not know the trail and asked Murray to lead. Murray took the lead and immediately Early poured the contents of both barrels into the back of Murray's head, killing him instantly. Early then notified the people at Archer and a crowd went to the spot, brought the corpse to town and afterwards sent it to Gainesville. The excitement there was intense, as several lynchings of Murray's confederates have occurred in that vicinity.

Early was the hero of the hour and was mounted on a box from which he made a speech describing the affair. He will get $1,500 in rewards. Murray had killed seven men within the past few months and was as fearless as he was blood-thirsty.

HAD A SAD TERMINATION.

Washington, Sept. 5.—The wife of Thomas A. Mitchell, a real estate agent of this city, eloped in July with Lewis K. Hall, a printer. Mrs. Mitchell is of Italian birth and Mr. Mitchell took a fancy to her while she was selling matches on the street. The eloping couple went to Baltimore where Hall was taken seriously ill. He was brought to this city by his mother while Mrs. Mitchell left for parts unknown. Yesterday she was arrested in Hagerstown, Md., at about the same hour that Hall died in Washington.

WILL NOT PROSECUTE.

Louisville, Ky., Sept. 5.—The directors of the Falls City bank at a meeting yesterday decided not to prosecute Major Wm. Tillman, the cashier who fled to Canada. This was done on recommendation of counsel, who advised that Tillman's offense was only a breach of trust, and that there was no hope of a conviction.

A PERFECT BABEL

At the Lucas County Republican Convention.

John Kumler Wants to Get in a Resolution,

But is Howled Down---Not What Was Expected.

Kent Hamilton Succeeds Col. Lyttle as Chairman.

All the Candidates Placed Before the Convention in Royal Style—Notes Picked Up in the Rush.

Chairman Bonner called the republican county convention to order shortly after 10 o'clock this morning at Druid hall, and announced that the committee had selected Col. Lafayette Lyttle for temporary chairman.

Col. Lyttle, on taking the chair, said it was not necessary for him to make a speech to a republican convention. "We are not here in the interest of any man or any set of men, but trust that all our deliberations may be of such a nature as will insure a majority of 2,000 for our matchless leader, William McKinley."

Frank W. Rickenbaugh was chosen as temporary secretary, and the representatives of republican press to act as assistant secretaries. On motion of Col. Enright the roll of the wards was called, for the selection of the different committees.

J. F. Kumler said that he had a resolution that he wanted to read. Cries of "No, no," "Put him out."

Mr. Brown moved that it be referred without reading.

Then came the first scene of the convention. Delegates stood on chairs and howled like demons. The chairman pounded for order in vain.

Mr. Kumler—"I desire to be heard, and I intend to be heard."

Horace Merrill—"I oppose the reading of this resolution. It presumes that the committee on resolutions does not know its business."

COL. LYTTLE'S FIRST EXERCISE.

Cries of "Read it," "Read it," and "Not by a d— sight," "Put him out."

Mr. Kumler—"This is my right and I insist on it, and I believe that on a fair vote this convention will allow me to read it. I insist on my right."

John W. Enright—"We don't want to hear that resolution. Let it be referred to the committee on resolutions. If it is not considered then Mr. Kumler can call it up."

Chairman Lyttle—"The convention is not yet organized."

Delegates howled so that the chairman could not be heard.

W. H. A. Read—"I rise to a point of order. We are not in convention yet."

The chair—"The point is well taken. I rule the reading of the resolution out of order."

Then another remarkable scene ensued. Nothing could be heard.

Mr. Kumler—"I appeal from the decision of the chair."

The roll was ordered called on the appeal.

W. H. A. Read—"I arise to a point

MR. SQUIRE LOOKS, BUT THAT'S ALL.

order in the calling of wards on the appeal. We do not know who are members of this convention until the committee on credentials have reported."

The Chairman—"That's right. The call would be out of order."

J. B. Battle—"I would like to know where we stand and what rights we have."

W. S. Thurstin—"I wish to repudiate the statement that democrats will be allowed to vote. We are here to do business and not to be choked."

I. N. Huntsberger—"I want to be heard."

Cries of "no," "rats," "come off the perch."

The appeal was lost by a big majority amid the most remarkable scenes. Kumler stood in a chair and shouted till he was hoarse, shaking his fist at his opponents.

"You can't gag us that way," he yelled.

"No," shouted a delegate, "nor you can not spring any of your Foraker resolutions on us."

It was a fair square knock down for the Foraker men, and the Sherman men made the most of it.

Kumler said: "You fellows are barking up the wrong tree. I have no Foraker resolutions."

The fact was that the Sherman fellows were badly scared without cause.

The resolution that Mr. Kumler desired to introduce was as follows:

Resolved, That it is the sense of this convention that the entire expense of discharging the duties of the county clerk's office and the county treasurer's office, including salaries of special officers, shall not exceed $5,000 per year, and the members of the general assembly of Ohio are hereby urged to enact such laws as will carry out the wishes of this convention.

Kumler and his friends had the laugh on the Sherman men, but the little incident showed that the latter were in control of the convention, by a big majority.

The convention then on motion recessed for half an hour.

PUBLIC BE D—D. ENGLEHART.

With the report of the committee on rules and permanent organization came one of the surprises of the convention.

It was supposed that the Sherman men had everything their own way, but when the committee came Col. Lyttle was knocked out for permanent chairman by a vote of 12 to 7.

J. C. Bonner was very mad, and contemplated submitting a minority report, but was induced to bow to the will of the majority.

The committee thereupon submitted as permanent chairman J. Kent Hamilton, with the balance of the temporary organization permanent.

It also submitted a report that it was the sense of the convention that the city of Toledo be entitled to two representatives and the county outside of Toledo to one.

The report was adopted.

When Mr. Hamilton assumed the chair he said:

"This honor has come to me unexpectedly. I desire to thank the convention for it. This is one of the largest conventions in the history of the republican party in Lucas county, and in my opinion, this will be a great year for republicans, and Ohio will go to the front in the rank of republican states once more. We have a leader who stands as the champion of all that is best in the policy of the country, as the champion of protection to American industry—William McKinley, the acknowledged leader of the protectionists of the United States. Shall he not be upheld by his neighbors of his own state? Not alone is he the champion of protection, but as well the champion of an honest dollar. This great question is also to be settled this year. There can be no doubt but that Ohio will again be wheeled into the column of republican states.

"The republicans of Lucas county are to be congratulated. Democrats were at one time in the majority, but year after

TRAIN ROBBERS CAUGHT

Desperate Battle Had With the Outlaws.

Thirteen Dead Highwaymen Tell the Story.

The Rangers Overtake Them in the Mountains and a Bloody Fusillade Follows.

Uvalde, Tex., Sept. 5.—The train robbers who were thought to have escaped across the Rio Grade river with a sum, said to be $20,000, which they secured form the express car on the Southern Pacific road, were met yesterday by a body of rangers who had been in pursuit, and a battle took place.

From reports received thirteen of the robbers and two rangers were killed and several of both sides were wounded.

The rangers followed what was thought to be the course pursued by the robbers through the mountain passes and although they had at several times lost the trail, they pulled up on the robbers.

Thursday they discovered unmistakeable evidence that the men were but a few miles ahead of them and were headed toward Las Vegas.

The pursuers pulled up on the bandits strongly and made better time, for after pushing on a portion of the night they were rewarded yesterday by falling in with the outlaws.

The engagement was short, as the bandits were outnumbered. They held the best position, however, and stood their ground until their dead and wounded was so great that resistance was impossible and then the remainder of them fled. It is said that two men escaped.

SHOULD CALL CHINA DOWN.

Such is the Comment of the London Press.

A Liberal Treatment of the Celestials Is Useless—Vigorous Measures Will Have to be Taken.

London, Sept. 5.—Commenting on a statement cabled from Shanghai purporting to give the views of the Chinese educated classes in regard to foreign missionaries and demanding the withdrawal of the missions from Chinese territory, the Times says:

"The lesson to be drawn is that a liberal treatment of China is useless. Europe should inflexibly and sternly insist on the observance of treaty rights and thus avoid irritating and fussy naval displays. We are glad to believe that this view is now held by the foreign office."

The Morning Advertiser says: "A nation (China) which occupies towards foreigners such an intellectual standpoint as this can hardly be brought to a desirable frame of mind by diplomatic remonstrance."

The Post says: "It is evident, equally from the inherent strength of the Chinese as from their manifest weakness, that a trifling policy is the worst that can be adopted. Europe must prepare either to enforce or renounce her treaty rights."

HORROR UPON HORROR.

Tales from the Weston Insane Asylum.

Suicide Follows Suicide and the Officers Don't Take the Trouble to Investigate Them.

Parkersburg, W. Va., Sept. 5.—A detailed account of the horrors at the Weston insane asylum in this state have been made public.

Suicide has followed suicide, it is charged, for some time among the inmates, and they have all been attended by the most horrible circumstances.

Men have killed themselves by boiling to death and suspension by ropes from the windows.

All this has been done in sight of the guards and no investigation has been made. There seems to have been no inquests held on the dead and a general inefficiency is manifest in the management.

SENSATIONAL ELOPEMENT.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., Sept. 5.—J. B. Shearn, a coal operator of this city, and Miss Mary J. Williams, a young society lady, have eloped. Shearn, who is about 40 years old, has a wife and two children, who are now at Asbury Park. Miss Williams is only 19 years old and very pretty. Her father is dead and her mother is in Europe. Shearn left a check for $1,000 to be given to his wife when she returned.

TWO DEATHS.

Tiffin, Sept. 5.—(Special)—Eli Snook, one of the oldest residents of Tiffin, died Tuesday evening after an illness that had confined him to the house for many months. He was the father-in-law of the late Dr. Stover. His age was about 56.

Wm. C. Myers, an aged and prominent citizen of Steubenville, died last evening at the home of his son in this city, where he had been visiting. The remains will be taken to his home in Steubenville this morning.

OCEAN MARINE.

Hamburg, Sept. 5.—Arrived—Normania from New York.

New York, Sept. 5.—Arrived—Fuerst Bismarck from Hamburg.

Liverpool, Sept. 5.—The Allen line steamship Mongolian, from Hamburg, arrived here yesterday morning.

RUN DOWN BY A LINER.

Disaster Off Bedloe's Island This Morning.

The Etruria Crashes Into a Harbor Tug and Makes the Wreck Complete.

New York, Sept. 5.—The tug boat Erie was run down and sank off Bedloe's island early this morning by the Cunard steamship Etruria while she was proceeding down the bay on her trip to Liverpool. The son of the captain of the tug boat was drowned.

The accident occurred at 7:10 a. m. during a dense fog. The Etruria, it is said, escaped damage and proceeded on her voyage.

AN AWFUL EXECUTION.

Lous Bulling's Battle Against the Gallows.

He Fired Two Bullets Into His Body,

But is Carried Shrieking, Swearing and Bleeding to the Death Trap and Dropped Through.

Savannah, Mo., Sept. 5.—The life of Louis Bulling has been marked by many crimes. According to his own confession he has been a desperate character and for many years has been haunted by the fears of arrest for his many transgressions. He first came under the notice of the officers of the law through his connection with a tragedy at Pittsburg, Pa., several years ago, in which two men were killed. He escaped conviction in this case and was next heard of in this state when the crime for which he was hanged to-day was committed.

He deserted his wife in the summer of '88 and took up with another woman. The abandoned wife sought employment at the Hebert house in Savannah. For some cause, which has never been explained, Bulling gained access to her room one night in January, 1888, and with an axe almost severed her head from her body and otherwise mutilated the remains in a horrible manner.

For this crime he was tried and sentenced to be hanged on March 6 last. The day before the execution he was respited to April 17, and on the 10th of that month he escaped by cutting his way out of the Savannah jail.

A large reward was offered for his capture, the Pinkerton agency put men on his trail, but their search was unsuccessful. His arrest was finally effected by the Chicago police after a desperate running fire with the murderer and the wounding of Bulling in the arm.

At the time, however, the police did not know the man they had in custody. Bulling had been in Chicago for some time under the alias of Louis May, sometimes going by the name of Dillinger. His identity was discovered the day after his capture, and he was once more placed in his old quarters in the Savannah, Mo., jail.

On July 3, the night after his arrival at Savannah, he attempted suicide by taking a dose of morphine, which he had by some means managed to conceal about his person. The attempt was unsuccessful, however, and on August 7 he was again sentenced to be hanged, making the third time he has heard the death sentence pronounced upon him.

The history of the gallows tells no more hideous story than that of the execution. Just before the time for the execution the doomed man shot himself in a vain effort to commit suicide and finally died on the gallows, shrieking for mercy and cursing his executioners.

Up to a few days ago Bulling seemed cheerful and hopeful in the face of approaching death. He had twice before cheated the gallows by jail breaking. He reasoned that the chance still remained, and to it might be added two others—commutation of sentence and suicide.

One by one these chances faded away. Early last week it was discovered that Buling had planned to break jail the third time. Steel saws were found in his cell and they were taken away from him. Perpetual guard was kept over him and all visitors were searched before being permitted to enter. All means of escape were cut off.

Then the doomed man sent for his father and mother and pleaded with them to appeal to the governor for a commutation of sentence. The faithful parents went to Jefferson City and had several personal interviews with Gov. Francis, but the governor was firm in his decision to not interfere.

Still the parents did not lose heart. They made another call on the governor yesterday and pleaded for their son's life. The governor would not interpose. Then Mr. and Mrs. Bulling telegraphed their son the governor's decision and followed the message to Savannah.

When Bulling's second chance for life disappeared he broke down completely. When he received from his parents the message that the governor was obdurate he fainted and was with difficulty revived. He was a confirmed opium eater and during the night he was given large doses of drug. It failed to have its accustomed effect and the condemned murderer slept less than two hours during the entire night. The Rev. August Lavake, during Bulling's waking hours, spent the time in reading the Bible and praying, exporting Bulling to confess his sins and receive baptism.

Sheriff Barry had set the hour for the execution at 10 o'clock. When he went to the cell at 6 o'clock to prepare the doomed man for the scaffold Bulling pleaded so pitifully for an extension of a few hours that the sheriff yielded and gave him until 2 o'clock to live.

He still had faint hope of a commutation, but at noon submitted to the baptismal ceremony and received the sacrament.

When 2 o'clock arrived he renewed his supplications to the sheriff and pleaded for one hour more. He fell on his knees before the sheriff and begged pitiously for mercy. The sheriff granted his request.

Then Bulling asked for brandy and the sheriff gave him a pint. Injections of morphine were administered, but neither of the drugs had much effect. The sheriff then retired, leaving the murderer with the Rev. Lavake, at the same time removing the guard from the cell door at Bulling's request, to be left alone with his spiritual advisor.

The silence of the jail was broken only by the voice of the priest, when suddenly two shots rang out.

The sheriff ran to the cell. The priest lay prostrate on the floor. At his side lay Bulling, weltering in his own blood, which flowed from wounds in his breast. He had shot himself twice with a revolver. The priest had fainted.

A hasty examination of Bulling's body showed that one of the bullets had entered the left breast, and glancing from a rib had passed around his body and come out of his back. The other bullet had inflicted only a slight flesh wound in his left side.

He had not lost consciousness, and when the sheriff ordered four deputies to carry him to the scaffold, he cursed and swore at them in a horrible manner.

The deputies dragged the struggling man to the court yard and lifted him upon the gallows. He refused to stand and they placed him upon a chair. As he sat there he presented a revolting spectacle. He was dressed only in shirt and trousers. His hands and face were covered with blood, which also stained his shirt and blood was streaming through his shoes, whence it had run from the wounds in his breast, and formed dark pools on the floor of the scaffold, dripping thence to the ground beneath.

He cursed and swore at the deputies, cried and screamed for mercy and shrieked in terror.

The sheriff gave him a large glass of brandy and he swallowed it at one guip. Finally he was told to get up and stand upon the drop. He refused, and four deputies held him up while the rope was being adjusted.

The black cap was place over his head, and yelling, screaming and blaspheming he shot through the opening at 21 minutes past 8 o'clock. His neck was broken by the fall and he died almost instantly.

The Rev. Lavake has been arrested for giving Bulling the revolver with which he attempted to commit suicide.

Mr. Lavake was interviewed by a reporter regarding Mr. Bulings attempted suicide. He said he did not give Bulling the revolver and had no idea where it came from. He was on his knees, praying, he said, when Bulling fired the first shot. He opened his eyes and saw that Bulling had shot himself.

The muscular contraction following the passage of the bullet into Bulling's body, he said, doubtless caused him to discharge the revolver accidentally, and the ball whizzed by his head and flattened itself against the cell door.

The priest thought at first that Buling was attempting to murder him, but now he says the shot was doubtless fired accidentally.

A third shot from the revolver caused Buling's second wound.

MONEY FOR THE WEST.

It is Coming This Way by the Million.

New York, Sept. 5.—One result of the visit of Secretary Foster was the temporary suspension of the order limiting to $500,000 a day the deposit of money at the sub-treasury for shipment by the Washington treasury to other places.

There was a sharp demand by the country correspondents for currency, and when the sub-treasury officers informed the secretary that they had considerable currency to spare, he directed the receipt of all deposits, the currency going directly from New York instead of Washington and thereby involving no embarrassment nor imposing new burdens upon the government bureau of printing and engraving at Washington. The deposits yesterday at the sub-treasury for shipment to other places amounted to $1,548,000. This included $190,000 to go to New Orleans, which exceeded by $90,000 the limit previously imposed by the $500,000 rule.

The action of the secretary was commended in Wall street as facilitating the movement of the crops without straining the national machinery.

THE STATE OF TRADE.

Business Has Improved in All Sections.

The Largest Crop of Grain Ever Grown in This Country—General Review.

New York, Sept. 5.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of trade says: Business improves in all sections; at the south partly because of injury to the cotton crop and the consequent advance in the price. The wheat crop is out of danger and is enormous, undoubtedly the largest ever grown, and moving with unusual rapidity. The corn crop has been saved and is very large in most of the surplus producing states, and even within the range of recent frosts appears to have been in part beyond injury.

The monetary situation is also decidedly clearer and more favorable. Foreign needs appear less urgent, and the danger of successful resistance to American demands for gold is diminished.

The removal of the German prohibition of American pork imports promises a largely increased demand for important products and a considerable addition to merchandise exports for the year.

Exports from New York in five weeks exceed last year's nearly 61 per cent., and while exports also increased largely, the balance of trade turns decidedly in favor of the United States.

The injury to cotton may also hasten exports of that product, which foreign operators, knowing the large stocks in Europe, might not have bought early had the American crop been full.

The reports from other cities express increased confidence and show some actual gain in the volume of trade. Steady improvements are seen at Boston.

At Philadelphia improvement is seen in iron and coal, steady buying of wool by manufacturers, especially of worsteds, and a fair trade in tobacco and chemicals, but collections are generally dull.

Manufacturing is active at Baltimore and jobbing trade healthy. Clothing and dry goods are especially active, and collections fair at Cincinnati.

At Chicago wheat receipts are four times last year's, rye nine times, corn and dressed beef double, and oats show increase, while some decrease is noted in flour, about one-half in barley and cured meats, and a quarter in lard.

Sales of dry goods exceed last year's, which were phenomenally large, and in clothing and shoes the trade is immense.

At St. Louis the distribution exceeds last year's and orders are free.

At Kansas City trade is fairly healthy.

At Minneapolis the jobbing trade is very good, wheat receipts being double last year's and lumber advanced $1 per thousand by the association, and at St. Paul trade steadily increases with assurance of unprecedent crops.

At Milwaukee business gains, though unusually slow collections pinch some of the jobbers. At all southern points higher cotton stimulates trade and collections are somewhat better, and at New Orleans there is a fair demand for sugar.

At most southern points money is also easier, and at New Orleans in ample supply for legitimate needs. At the west no complaints of stringency are noted, though money is firmer at Chicago.

Operations in speculative markets have been more active, and wheat has declined 4¾ cents on sales of 18,000,000 bushels on account of enormous receipts at the west, which have been at the rate of 1,350,000 bushels daily for the week thus far.

Exports for the current week have been about ten times those of last year, though the movement of flour does not correspondingly increase.

Corn declined 3 cents before the reports of frost, and oats 1¾c.

Cotton has advanced notably, more than half a cent during the week on sales of 930,000 bales at New York and the market is likely to be uncertain for some time to come.

Oats has fallen 3⅝ cents, and coffee ⅝ of a cent, but no fall is seen in portroducts, which may be strengthened by the new German decree. In stocks there has been a remarkable advance, broken on Thursday by some reaction on report of frosts.

The great industries are doing well, though strikes of importance are threatened in the cotton mills at Fall River, and the window glass works at the west. Distinct improvement is seen in the demand for iron and its products, though prices are unchanged, and also in coal, while minor metals are firm. The trade in dry goods is fairly large, particularly in all wool cashmeres and dress goods.

The business failures occurring throughout the country during the past seven days number 217, as compared with a total of 226 last week. For the corresponding week of last year the figures were 203.

THE CANADIAN CENSUS.

The Population Not Increasing Rapidly.

Radical Change Demanded in the Governmental Methods and Policy of the Administration.

Ottawa, Ont., Sept. 5.—The recent census of the dominion, showing the extreme smallness of the apparent increase in population during the past ten years, formed the subject of a motion of want of confidence in the government, moved by Sir Richard Cartwright in the House of Commons last night.

Sir Richard charged the government with having sacrificed the statement as to the population as contained in the returns grades during the past few years, and with having called on the general elections in March last in the knowledge that if the people could see how the population had suffered from the high tariff policy of the past eighteen years they would have given a different verdict.

He pointed out that April 1, 1881, the population was 4,324,810. In the ten years since that time, according to the reports of the department of agriculture, 806,171 immigrants had settled in Canada. Giving the rate of natural increase at 2 1-4 per cent, a figure not too high when the enormous fecundity of the French-Canadians was considered, the natural increase in the population, including those who had been in Canada in 1881 and the immigrants who had settled in the dominion since then, should have been 1,077,531.

The population, therefore, should have amounted to 6,404,944. Instead of that it amounted only to 4,829,344, an increase of only 504,534 in ten years.

Sir Richard moved that the deplorable state of things disclosed by the above mentioned returns imperatively demanded a radical change in the policy and methods of the government followed by the administration, and bore out the statements that he had made upon the platforms of the country for several years past one-third of the men born in Canada in the last fifty years had left this country for the United States, as had also one-fifth of the women and children born in Canada during the past ten years.

Mr. Foster, Minister of Finances, defended the policy of the government.

WILL IT EVER RETURN?

Fears for the Safety of the Peary Party.

Believed That the Fate of Greeley May Overtake It.

A White Woman Who Braved the Dangers of the Trip May Never Return to the Land of Her Birth.

New York, Sept. 5.—Is the Peary acrtic expedition in danger of meeting the unhappy fate of the brave fellows who composed the Greely party, and of whom only a fraction was saved from perishing?

Now that the ice ship Kite has returned from her adventurous onslaught on the frozen North, after depositing Lieut. Robert E. Peary, his wife and his five associates in McCormick bay, North Greenland, people acquainted with arctic travel have received information that gives them an opportunity of weighing the Peary expedition in the balance, and there is a strong feeling among them that there may be a sad addition to the already too crowded volume of Polar suffering—a chapter sadder than any yet written, since it concerns the fate of a young and beautiful American woman, who accompanied her husband, with no thought or knowledge of what an arctic winter means.

From the start the expedition, it is alleged, was based on misconception and misinformation. Peary, some years ago, made a trip to Godhaven, on Disco Island, where he penetrated a long distance into the interior of Greenland over the ice cap in which that country is buried. This gave him the idea of taking a similar excursion over the ice cap in a more remote region, with a view to determine the northern extremity of Greenland, the position of which has never been ascertained.

Some scientists think that Greenland extends to about 85 degrees north, others are convinced that it reaches 350 miles further or to the pole itself. Peary went north to find out which party is right, his own opinion being that about 85 degrees north is its extreme limit.

Peary took his scheme to the Academy of Natural sciences in Philadelphia, an institution which backed the Arctic explorer Kane, and which has always been liberal in raising funds for the settlement of scientific problems. To them he argued that is his party could reach Whale sound in about N. lat. 77 degrees 30 minutes, a trip over the ice cap in the following spring and a subsequent retreat to Danish Greenland in whale boats would be easy. All he wanted was some backing for the equipment and transportation north of his party; once there also exploration and the return would take care themselves. The experiences of the Kite convinced all on board that Peary somehow or other had got the thing wrong end foremost and that, after all, his troubles are to be the same as those of all other explorers who have found that getting back is the hardest part of it.

At present the Peary expedition stands in this position: They are encamped in a desolate and almost inaccessible region, with the task before them of making a trip next spring 400 miles north into a region also probably inaccessible and then coming back and finding themselves no better off than before. In other words they have calmly undertaken to do in a few short months two tasks, either one of which ordinary people would consider impossible.

If they take the northern trip over the ice cap and can't get back, starvation awaits them. If they do get back and then fail at making the trip south to civilization, the same fate may be theirs.

The point where the party are camped to-day is 500 miles north of civilization—a term which may be applied to the Danish settlement of Upernavik, which at least has communication by vessel with Denmark. Between McCormick bay and Upernavik, however, is Melville bay, the most impassable of Arctic waters by reason of its immense accumulation of icebergs and icefloes. The steamship Kite, when jammed in the ice in this bay, took 21 days to make 100 miles.

Peary, in his proposition to the Philadelphia academy, declared that he would go through this in his whaleboats. The thing was done by Capt. Pike, who commanded the Proteus when she was lost going to the relief of Greely, but Pike had good boats and a large supply of men. Peary has neither. Capt. Pike openly expresses the opinion that Peary's whaleboats are not strong enough, and that Peary's whole party does not constitute a crew competent to take even one of the whaleboats through Melville bay.

A very lively time is expected in the academy when it is discovered that the Quaker institution has placed seven persons in so perilous a position. Many friends of the academy—and the expedition was financially backed by them in their individual capacity—were averse to assisting an Arctic expedition on account of the terrible loss of life which has gone hand in hand with northern exploration.

Prof. Heilprin, curator of the academy, who accompanied the expedition, is far too level-headed a man not to perceive the unhappy position of the Peary party, and in his report to the academy he cannot fail to tell the facts as they appear—namely, that Peary will in all human probability be unable to return unaided, and that some one will have to get a relief expedition to bring him back. Thus far it is argued that the Peary trip was a colossal blunder.

Peary, himself, had no idea of what a journey through Melville bay meant. Before that awful region was encountered he is reported to have spoken quite sharply to a member of the party who suggested to him the advisability of a relief expedition next year. When he saw what the place was like, however, he changed his mind somewhat and in his report to the academy he says that "since the matter has been talked of on the Kite he would suggest certain facts with relation to a relief party, if any is gotten up. He details the route of his whale boat next August, and names certain places where information can be found of his wherebouts in cairns of stones.

Who will go to McCormack bay next year to relieve Peary, provided that he has got back from the north and is there to relieve?

The members of the Academy party who get a glimpse of the glaciers and the ice cap on which the Peary people are to travel have no such enthusiastic notions of the feasibility of the excursion as the lieutenant had. Probably the greatest danger will do inability to determine their position. In six weeks the Kite got only one or two solar observations. On the ice cap the condition of things would not be favorable to taking the sun's altitude.

Every ounce of food to be consumed on the ice cap must be hauled on a sled by the explorers. Detention and starvation would be synonymous. In his calculations of the ice cap journey Peary has made little allowances for the vast crevasses which have always been found on the island, but which he believes are not numerous so far north as his position, on account of the greater solidity of the ice. A journey of 100 miles might easily be prolonged by misfortune into 200. This would mean death to the party.

Another matter which astonished the academy, and which will lead to a great deal of unfavorable criticism, is the presence of Mrs. Peary on the expedition. It can only be said that the academy would never have had anything to do with the project had it known that she was going.

None of the members of the Peary expedition, with the exception of the colored man, Mat, who thought Greenland was a sort of Atlantic City, knew that Mrs. Peary was to remain in McCormick bay. Each member declared that he would never have enlisted had he known it. The addition of a woman to the expedition, therefore, really adds to its perils and difficulties.

It is also claimed that the party is not properly equipped in other respects. Peary, it seems, forgot altogether the question of a supply of coal, and took none with him. He was able, fortunately, to get seven tons from Capt. Pike, who, however, did not very much like parting with it, as he was himself short. This is cited by critics as showing that the expedition was deficient in management. Beside this, all supplies, dogs and natives, were refused by the Danish officials, because Peary had omitted to get a permit from the Copenhagen officials to land in Greenland.

At Upernavik, in reply to requests for help of this kind, the governor filed this statement on the Kite, printed in English:

The board of directors of the royal Greenland trade make known:

1. It is agreed by the treaties between the royal Danish government and the United States of America, Great Britain and other states, that the west coast of Greenland between latitude 60 degrees and 73 degrees be closed for navigation of foreign ships and Danish ships, except by special permission of the royal Danish government, by whom the monopoly of trade with Greenland is held.

2. Pursuant to the laws in force, any ship navigating, without permission, on the west coast of Greenland may be seized wherever met with, and the ship and goods be confiscated. Similar punishment may be applied if any person, or persons, be found trading with the Greenlanders or Danish colonists from a ship lying in a port of Greenland or off the coast.

3. Shipmasters compelled by shipwreck or other causes to seek port in Greenland shall not remain in port longer than necessary. Shipmasters shall also be responsible for their crews not remaining on shore without necessity, nor in any way trading with the natives, with whom all intercourse is altogether prohibited.

4. The object of pronibiting the navigation on the west coast of Greenland and of maintaing the monopoly of the trade, is to protect the native population of Greenland. This population will be threatened with ruin if contagious disease be brought into the country, or if spirituous liquors or other similar articles be imported. The board will therefore be obliged to demand that the order prohibiting the navigation of Greenland in every way be respected in case the crew of any ship should not strictly obstain from all intercourse with the native population.

Copenhagen, May 8, 1884.

Thus handicapped Peary was unable to procure many things that would have been useful. The region of Whale sound, Peary understood, was full of reindeer and game. During a five days' sojourn there not a single deer was killed, only small birds falling before the guns. It is not likely, therefore, that the larder of the expedition will be much swelled, though the party were depending largely for food upon hunting. So short, indeed, was Perry of supplies that all the ducks killed from the Kite on the journey north and the meat of the polar bear slain were claimed by him. This did not avail much, however, as his people refused to follow the advice of the captain and steward in curing them, but used some scientific process of their own, with the result that on arrival in McCormick bay all the food was too rotton to be of much use. This applies also to some seals that had been slain.

Altogether, if the survival of the expedition depends on judgment, experience and supplies, its friends may not be altogether in the wrong in trembling for its safety.

THE WOOL QUESTION.

The Standard Sample Question Considered.

Washington, Sept. 5.—Messrs. Edward A. Greene, John L. Houston, John T. Rich and Nicholas Lauger, the committee appointed by the secretary of the treasury in April to "advise the department what necessity exists for renewing or making additions to the standard wool samples of the government," have submitted a preliminary report to the department.

They say they examined the various standard samples now used at the principal ports and that they have had extensive correspondence with persons interested in the matter.

The company has also addressed letters of inquiry to the United States consuls at the various ports from which wools are exported and from whom few republics have been so far received.

The committee believes that the standard samples should be renewed and additions made to the same and thinks it advisable that the department procure authenticated samples of as many foreign wools, hairs, waste, etc., as possible, a list of which is appended, and advise that a competent man be sent to the markets of Liverpool, London and Marseilles for that purpose.

The committee recommends that the new standard sample must be made at least double the size of the present one. A large percentage of these wools can be thoroughly represented by the ordinary standard samples, but of the other, whole fleeces should be procured and retained at some central point for references in case of doubt or litigation.

The committee designates with the list the amount of wool, hair, waste, etc., necessary for ordinary standard samples and also indicates those which in its opinion will need full fleeces or 10 pound samples.

The committee recommends that samples of wool be preserved by the wool examiners from importations when in their judgment it is improperly classified by the importers, with a brief history of the wool referred to, date of importation, the reasons for their conclusions and the final decisions of the authorities respecting it.

It is alleged that some wools now classed as class 3 have been so im proved as to require reclassification, but the committee desires to reserve any decisions on these wools until the samples asked for are placed before it.

If the department concurs in the recommendation of the committee to procure the samples then no further recommendation would seem proper at this time. If the recommendation is not concurred in the committe under your instructions will report its conclusions from the information obtainable without them.

FACTS FROM FINDLAY.

Gossip from the Brilliant City.

Labor Day to be Generally Observed —Hotel Change—General Mention.

Findlay, O., Sept. 5.—(Special)—Nearly all the business houses in the city have agreed to close their places of business on Monday in accordance to the proclamation of Gov. Campbell. The principal part of the program will be held at Carnahan park.

A Fake.

The following notice was found yesterday written with lead pencil on one of the closet doors in the basement of the court house:

Notice.

Orin Wisley is my name and I am agoing to shoot myself on Sept. 1, 1891, because I am a disgrace to my family.

The above refers to the poor unfortunate who did suicide on Monday last. It is thought the notice was written by some wag who thought he would create a sensation.

Inspecting the Postoffices.

Postmaster Moore and Deputy Black are visiting and examining all the small postoffices in this county to report to the postoffice department. The offices visited thus far are reported to be in fair condition.

Inquest Commenced.

Coroner Howell commenced taking testimony yesterday to solve the mystery as far as possible in the true cause of the death of Orion M. Wiseley. A large number of witnesses will be called to give testimony, and it will be several days before a verdict is reached. There are some persons who claim it was a murder instead of a suicide.

Hotel Change.

George B. Selever, of Cleveland, a well known traveling man, has bought out the interest of Mr. Cox in the Joy house, one of the leading hotels of this city. The firm in the future will be Jones & Selever. The popularity of the house, especially among the commercial travelers, will be greatly increased by the change.

"A BACK NUMBER."

This is the slighting remark that is so often applied to women who try to seem young, though they no longer look so. Sometimes appearances are deceitful. Female weakness, functional troubles, displacements and irregularities will add fifteen years to a woman's looks. These troubles are removed by the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. Try this remedy, all you whose beauty and freshness is fading from such causes, and no longer figure in society as a "back number." It's guaranteed to give satisfaction in every case, or money paid for it returned. See guarantee on bottle wrapper.

NEED NEW METHODS.

Pennsylvania Wants an Overhauling,

The State Campaign Will Be Made This Fall on the Misdeeds of Republicans.

Philadelphia, Sept. 5.—The state treasury investigating commission appointed by the senate and house of representatives, met at the Continental hotel.

Gov. Pattison was the first witness called, and on being sworn was asked by Chairman Smith if he had any information to give, the governor said: "I was president of the Chestnut Street National bank; I resigned in 1891; there was a deposit of $100,000 of the state money; I do not know whether it was from Mr. Boyer or Mr. Livsey; no money consideration was paid; I had no intercourse with any official; a bond was presented, but it was thought the security of the Chestnut Street National bank was sufficient; no agreement, contract or suggestion was ever made."

"Were any special favors granted to any official," asked Mr. Fow.

"None whatever."

"Was any money paid for campaign expenses?"

"None whatever."

"Was that sum to remain, or was it subject to check?" asked Captain Skinner.

"It was subject to check."

"Would you have any objection to state wherein any improvement could be made in the offices of the state?"

"The auditing system of the state is very incomplete, and much improvement might be made. The system in Philadelphia might be followed, with some improvements. Efforts have been made to improve the present system, but the bills have failed of passage in the legislature. As it is now, the audits are made irregularly. The accounts of the county treasurers not rendered within 30 days might be returned to the attorney general.

"I don't see why the system of the United States government should not be adopted. It seems to me to be a perfect system. The national banks can only have 2 per cent. upon their deposits, but it makes them strong in public esteem. I never had any transaction with John Bardsley, directly or indirectly, as to deposits in the Chestnut street national bank. I never had any conversation or communication with him about state or private money until 1889. I think I met him but twice. The deposit was not solicited, but was made in the usual way. At that time I had no suspicion of his honesty."

WRECKED ON THE ROCKS.

The Steam Yacht Albatross a Total Loss.

All of Her Passengers and Crew Escaped Except the Owner's Son.

Boston, Sept. 5.—The steam yacht Albatross, owned by J. Eggleston, has been wrecked on the rocks on Gull island, near the New Foundland coast, and is a total loss. She was valued at $100,000. There was a large party of guests on board and all were landed safely except Dr. J. B. Eggleston, the only son of the owner, who is believed to have been drowned.

After the boat load of guests had put off for the land, young Eggleston thinking the boat was about to founder, jumped into the sea with the intention of swimming ashore. He has not been seen since.

He had just been graduated from the medical college at Albany, N. Y., where his parents had resided until recently, when they removed to Boston. They are now at St. Johns awaiting tidings of their son.

THE KNIBBS CASE.

New York, Sept. 5.—In the United States circuit court to-day Judge Wheeler decided in favor of the plaintiff in the suit of C. C. Campbell v the mayor of New York. This is what is known as the Knibbs patent case, involving the right to use certain valves in steam fire engine pumps. Similar suits are pending against a large number of cities in the United States.

is the bane of so many lives that here is where we make our great boast. Our pills cure it while others do not.

CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS are very small and very easy to take. One or two pills make a dose. They are strictly vegetable and do not gripe or purge, but by their gentle action please all who use them. In vials at 25 cents; five for $1. Sold everywhere, or sent by mail.

CARTER MEDICINE CO., New York.

Small Pill. Small Dose. Small Price.

TO WEAK MEN suffering from the effects of early decay, wasting weakness, lost manhood, etc., I will send a valuable treatise (sealed) containing full particulars for home cure, FREE of charge. A splendid medical work; should be read by every man who is nervous and debilitated. Address Prof. F. C. FOWLER, Moodus, Conn.

THE GRIP'S AFTER EFFECTS

Why You Do Not Get Back Your Strength.

There is no disease which leaves in its train so many weak, nervous, debilitated and discouraged sufferers as the grip. People who have had this disease do not recover their strength readily, but day after day attend to their employment in a weakened and exhausted condition, feeling tired and languid all the time. If this nervous weakness is allowed to run, a sudden attack of malaria prostration, heart failure or paralysis may result.

The great strengthening and invigorating medicine to take in such cases, as well as for general debility, low blood, weak nerves, stomach, liver and kidney diseases, is Dr. Greene's Nervura. It will restore strength and health almost like magic. Purely vegetable and harmless. Druggists, $1.00.

"If it had not been for Dr. Greene's Nervura, I should have been dead before this time. I had the Grip and it left me prostrated, extremely nervous, limbs stiff in the joints, bowels bloated badly and breathing terrible. In fact I was almost a complete wreck, and could do but little work of any kind. I commenced to take Dr. Greene's Nervura, and at the end of one week was better, and now I am able to do a full day's labor.

CHARLES H. STEVENS.
South Effingham, N. H."

N. B. Dr. Greene, the successful specialist in curing all forms of nervous and chronic diseases, 35 W. 14th Street, New York, can be consulted free, personally, or by letter. Call or write him about your case, or send for symptom blank to fill out, and a letter fully explaining your disease, giving advice, etc., will be returned free.

ties in our neighborhood it has been diminishing. Shall not this state of affairs continue? Let the ticket to be nominated to-day be a good one. Let there be no differences when this convention is over, and we will elect every man whom we place upon this ticket."

John W. Enright offered a resolution that the thanks of this convention were due to Col. Lyttle for his services. The resolution prevailed.

Amid cries of "Emmick," "Emmick," the convention recessed until 1:30 o'clock.

After Recess.

When the convention was called to order after the recess, the report of the committee on credentials was called for. It was announced that the committee could not report for ten minutes. The chairman of that committee, Judge Ritchie, reported finally that there were no contests, and that the list as read was the correct one.

The report was adopted unanimously.

The committee on resolutions reported as follows:

Resolved, That the republicans of Lucas county most heartily endorse and approve the wise administration of President Harrison.

Resolved, That we heartily endorse the ticket and platform adopted at Columbus.

Resolved, That in Major Wm. McKinley, the tried statesman, the true soldier, and the worthy citizen, we recognize the most fitting exponent of the great principles of protection to American industries and labor.

This resolution offered by Mr. Kumler were submitted to the committee, but were laid on the table.

This Afternoon's Convention.

When the convention was called to order at nearly 2 o'clock, the hall was crowded.

Chairman Hamilton suggested that a call of the wards and townships be made for the purpose of selecting a central committee. In the selection of this committee, the Squires contingent was not considered. H. A. Merrill was put on the committee from Squire's ward, the Fourth.

Mr. H. E. King offered a resolution providing a method of voting for tre convention. It provided that the roll should be called, and the vote announced orally.

John W. Enright moved to amend by calling the wards and townships alternately.

The amedment was lost. The vote on the original resolution was unanivously adopted.

The nominating speeches were limited to three minutes, on the suggestion of A. W. Eckert.

Announcements of names of candisdtes for representative were then called for.

After waiting some time J. D. Ford said: "Let us proceed to nominate candidates for some other office, if there are nobody who wishes to go to the legislature." (Laughter.)

No names being presented a motion was made to proceed to ballot.

The motion was lost.

Chairman Hamilton called W. S. Thurstin to the chair, and said: "I had agreed to perform this duty before I was called upon to perform the duties of chairman. The city of Toledo is growing very large and it needs a man who can fairly represent us. We have at this time a man representing us who has brains and knows how to use them. I submit that Charles P. Griffin is a gentleman whom we can continue to permit to represent us, without being ashamed of him. H eought to be renominated, and if he is, he will be elected. His experience of four years at the state capital will be of much benefit to him." (Cries of "Time.")

"With all due deference to other gentlemen, I submit the name of Charles P. Griffin."

Mr. H. E. ing—"Mr. Chairman I desire to place in nomination for the office of representative, Carl H. Beckham. Mr. Beckham was born in our neighboring county of Henry, and got his education at Napoleon. He has been a Toledoan since 1878, and in this time has demonstrated that he is a capable lawyer and a good citizen. He ought to be one of the two men on our ticket from the city of Toledo."

Col. Lyttle seconded the nomination of Carl Beckham.

O. W. Eckert of Maumee seconded the nomination of Mr. Fleckinger. "We know him," said Mr. Eckert, "and we never asked for a favor that he did not grant."

T. D. McNilt seconded the nomination of Mr. Griffin.

Mr. C. W. Wilson also seconded Mr. Griffin's nomination.

Doc Smith seconded the nomination of Griffin. "He has brains, and the interests of Toledo at heart."

John W. Enright said: "I am no orator, as Brutus was, but rather like Mark Anthony, I am rather a plain, blunt citizen, and love my friends. The candidate whom I am about to present, is one of the finest orators in the city. His oratory is like the murmuring of the meandering brooklet (Laughter, and cries of "come off," "let up," etc.)

"Mr. Chairman," shouted the speaker, "will I have a chance to speak?"

Order being restored, Mr. Enright proceeded to place in nomination Mr. B. O. Manchester, of the Ninth ward.

Hon. Jacob Romeis placed in nomination Hon. C. A. Flickinger. "You have voted for my candidate many times before, in victory and defeat, and he has always been a strong man before the people."

He stated that Mr. Flicinger was well qualified, and that he had known him

HEAR ME FOR MY CAUSE ENRIGHT.

since 1865, when he kept a store on Summit street. If nominated he will be a credit to the county."

Herman Baumbach seconded the nomination of Mr. Manchester. A delegate from Monclova seconded the nomination of C. P. Griffin, as did also J. T. Greer.

J. C. Chase moved that the rules be suspended and Griffin be nominated by acclamation. Cries of "No," "No," "Not by a d—d sight," etc.

A ballot was ordered.

Griffin, Fleckinger and Beckham were nominated.

At the Convention.

Squire was not in the hall.

'Squire Enright sported a bran new plug.

The post officers were on hand in force.

It was a noisy convention in every sense.

As usual John Enright had the most to say.

The attendance in the afternoon was very large.

Collector Waldorf circulated among the delegates.

The First and Eighth wards occupied the front seats.

The bar below the hall did a flourishing business.

Postmaster Brown was on the floor of the convention.

The committee on resolutions sat pretty hard on John Kumler.

Col. Bones Robinson had his Canton avenue cadets in line.

The committee on resolutions had a big fight on hand.

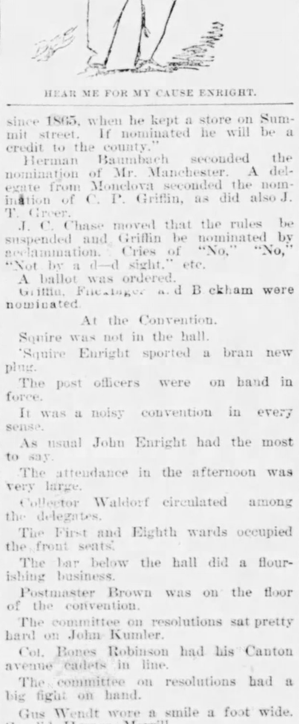
Gus Wendt wore a smile a foot wide. So did Horace Merrill.

There was no evidence of any hidden sympathy for W. I. Squire.

It is worthy of remark that the convention failed to indorse Emmick.

Griffin hung around the rear part of the hall during the morning session.

"I'm foh Sherman," yelled "Bones" Robison. "He's a fus-class ole man."



SPEAKS FOR ITSELF.

The action of the committee on permanent organization was not very complimentary to Col. Lyttle.

Bill Kirkby was the biggest toad in the puddle. He was for Sherman, and got in some splendid work.

The vote in committee on the question of permanent chairman stood 12 for Hamilton to 7 for Col. Lyttle.

The Sherman men were so alert that the slightest move of the other fellows scared them out of their boots.

Dr. Schweiss was on hand pushing his canvass for governor. Herman Baumbach is to be his private secretary.

Caucus Notes.

Jake Engelhardt's son headed the delegation from the Fifth.

Fred Kumler bit the dust in the Third for central committeeman.

Mayor Emmick succeeded in being made a delegate from the First by a narrow squeeze.

It is to be hoped the public will hear no more about packing caucuses after last night's lay out.

The Robisons have inaugurated a bad practice in seeking to control caucuses. It won't work, as was evident in the Third ward.

"Bones" Robinson was elected delegate from the Second ward, but his chief, Postmaster Brown, did not appear to be in it.

The Fifth ward braves have been after Mr. Squire for many moons, but last night was the first time his scalp dangled from their belt.

PEACE-MAKER W. H. TUCKER.

Caldwell got one vote for ward committeeman in the Sixth. This is a gain since last spring, when he received none. The young man is growing in popularity.

The county committee is not so strongly for Foraker as intended. Mr. Bonner bobs up again O. K., while Mr. Squire does not. There is dead loads of fun ahead.

From all appearances, the third-termers got a close shave last night, if they were not wiped out. Certain it is that many of the leaders are without followers to-day.

Moxie Marx came out of the Second ward with flying colors. It is now in order for some one to read a curtain lecture on the high moral tone of the republican party.

As anticipated, there were some very lively times at the caucuses last night, and many of the gentlemen who owned several delegations yesterday failed to find a place for themselves when the votes were counted.

There is no necessity to print the names of the delegates chosen last evening. Wiht the exception of a few who were voted out of sight, the selections are the same as usual, and which have done service for lo, these many years.

Mr. Squire abandoned his plan for holding a caucus of his own, and went to Druid hall, where he received his Waterloo. The president of the Ohio Republican league received 10 votes out of a house full.

The most disgraceful scenes were enacted at many of the caucuses last night. This will not prevent republicans from feeling keenly on the subject of democratic caucuses. Truly the only morality party has degenerated to some extent.

County central committee elected in the wards is as follows: First, Frank H. Tanner; Second, J. C. Bonner; Third, W. A Mills; Fourth, H. A. Merrill; Fifth, Louis Nunn; Sixth, W. T. Ryan;

HERMAN BAUMBACH, JAKE'S SIDE PARTNER.

Seventh, J. C. Rike; Eighth, H. C. Ellis; Ninth, Charles Hall.

Harbor Master Skeldon has developed as a great politician. At the caucus in the First the voters from the different precincts separated to elect delegates. When the A people got together, Capt. Skeldon named and elected Mr. Hubbard as chairman, and drew from his vest pocket a list of names which he read off and wanted elected. Most of them got there, but not until after a second trial. It was a Henzler and Englehart slate.

SUIT FOR $20,000.

A Railroad Man Demands Pay for the Loss of an Arm.

In common pleas court to-day Edward Lanphene, by his attorney, L. G. Richardson, instituted proceedings against the Lake Shore & Michigan Southern Railroad company to recover $20,000 damages for personal injury.

The plaintiff charges that on January 7, while in the employ of the defendant as brakeman, in making an attempt to couple two cars together had his arm caught between the drawheads and crushed to such an extent that amputation was necessary to save his life.

He holds the company responsible for the reason that the drawheads were not in proper position, and that he was not furnished with a coupling stick.

INSTANTLY KILLED.

Andrew Judge Meets His Death on the Railroad Track.

Andrew Judge, who boards with his sister at 131 Indiana avenue, was almost instantly killed at the C., H. & D. freight house at 1 o'clock this afternoon. He was about 45 years old and unmarri d

Mr. Judge was a switchman at the C., H. & D. yards.

How the accident occurred no one knows, but it is presumed that he lost his footing and slipped on the wet track and fel under a moving train. The rear trucks of the train passed over his left shoulder, and horribly bruised his breast and back, killing him almost instantly.

The coroner was called and viewed the body and ordered it sent home. He will render his verdict in accordance with the above facts.

SOME SPICY CURRENT TOPICS

Of Local and Neighborhood Interest.

Notes and Comments on Incidents Occurring Daily—Prepared for Readers Who are Hustled for Time.

NON-PARTISAN W. C. T. U.

The non-partisan W. C. T. U. will meet this evening at the residence of Mrs. J. L. Watson, Franklin avenue, and complete arrangements for their lunch booth at the fair.

OLD AND MUSTY.

The reciprocity treaty with Hawaii was proposed in 1875 and effectuated before Mr. Blaine had become secretary of state—six years before. Reciprocity is not only old but musty.—Chicago Herald.

IN THEIR MINDS.

Two years ago this month, the republicans of Ohio were "carrying the state" for Foraker, "in their minds." But, Campbell became governor. Now, the republicans are "carrying," etc., for McKinley. But, Campbell is still there. —Grand Rapids Democrat.

ELECTION BOOTHS PROVIDED.

The board of elections met yesterday afternoon and awarded Zuckreigel & Co., of Cincinnati, the contract to supply 70 voting stalls. These are portable, and made of wood, to be set up in the polling precincts throughout the county. The whole county is now supplied with places to vote according to the new law.

THE OHIO YACHT CLUB.

A meeting of the directors of the Ohio Yacht club was held last evening. The next monthly directors' meeting will be held at the city club house. Friday evening next a regular meeting will be held at the rooms up town. Business will be rushed through and a program arranged by the entertainment committee will be presented.

SUNDAY SCHOOL CONVENTION.

Notwithstanding the inclement weather, a fair number of Toledo teachers went to Maumee this morning to attend the Sunday school convention. The exercises opened at 10 o'clock, and will continue through to-day and to-morrow evening. The program was printed in last evening's Bee, and those who attend cannot fail to profit from the instruction in the various papers and the discussion following.

DEATH OF MRS. GORMAN.

Another old resident of Toledo passed away this morning in the person of Mrs. Catherine Gorman, the mother of the well-known Gorman brothers, the building contractors of Toledo. The deceased came to Toledo in 1854 and has been a resident ever since. Mrs. Gorman always commanded the respect and esteem of all with whom she came in contact. The funeral will be held on Monday morning from St. Patrick's church.

HUMANE SOCIETY'S WORK.

The many children coming under care of the Humane Society, speaks powerfully of the shortcomings of parents, many of whom abuse them, give them no care, permitting them to grow up in ignorance and vice, and turning them on the community for subsitence. Events transpiring recently point to the necessity of enlarging the quarters of the association in order to have temporary shelter for the children coming under its care, until permanent arrangements can be made by placing them in Homes or Reformatories.

CLUBS WILL SOON RESUME.

The various reform and literary clubs will soon resume their autumn work. The Ramabai Circle meets with Mrs. D. C. Shaw, Parkwood avenue, on the 16th of this month. The Isabella association with Mrs. Bissell, on the 15th. The Women's Suffrage association meets the first Wednesday of October. The Shakespeare club the first Monday of that month. The Society of Economic Inquiry the second Wednesday. The New Century club the first Friday, and the Woman's Colloquial club the second Friday of October.

DUCK SHOOTING PROMISED.

The duck shooting will soon commence and from the indications this fall promises to be one of the best in years. Mr. Cummings and family went down to the Cedar Point club house Thursday on the steamer Wilson and opened it and made ready for the fall. They returned yesterday.

The wild rice is not yet quite ripe, but it is very thick and will make a great place for the ducks in a few weeks. The hunters are making ex ensive preparations for the slaughter of the birds, and some splendid sport is promised.

JUDGE GRAYSON MILLS.

The manner in which Judge Grayson Mills was nominated here was indication of the fact that he has performed his duties in a perfectly satisfactory way, and that he has proven himself to be a worthy successor to the lamented Judge DeWitt. Being called to the bench at the early age of 37 by the governor, he without any practical judicial experience assumed the duties of a common pleas judge, from where his duties left off, and has made few if any mistakes. The nomination was a compliment to a modist jurist who has a bright future before him.—Fremont Messenger.

LUCAS COUNTY'S VALUATION.

County Auditor Vortriede this morning received the following statement from the auditor of state, showing the returned valuation, additions, and aggregate valuation as fixed by the action of the state board of equalization of the real property of Lucas county on the decennial appraisement:

BIRMINGHAM Y. P. S. S. E.

Preaching service will be held to-morrow afternoon at half past three o'clock, in the room at the corner of Front street and Paine avenue, East Toledo. Rev. C. B. Holding, pastor of Clark Street M. E. church, will conduct the service. The weekly prayer meeting of the Chrisian Endeavor Society will be held at the same place on Tuesday evening, at 8 o'clock. Topic: "How can we show that we are God's children?" John 8:31 and John 15:1-8. To all of the services held at this place a cordial and earnest invitation is extended to everyone of whatever church, to attend. At the service held last Sunday and Tuesday, the attendance was good and the services full of interest and help.

THE FIRST OF ITS KIND.

A new machine, just completed, was put it into operation at the works of the Toledo Machine and Tool company, on Superior street, yesterday afternoon. The machine was made to cut links from soft steel, for a new link chain to be manufactured by the Dayton Steel Chain company. It is an intricate piece of mechanism, but so nicely was it adjusted that when the power was applied it commenced to chew up cold steel into links as if it was munching bread. It is the first machine of the kind ever built in Toledo or used in Ohio. H. R. Hopkins studied out the workings and made the greater part of the machine.

A VERY PRETTY WEDDING.

Herbert H. Adams and Miss Mary H. Norton were united in marriage Wednesday evening at Grace church, Rev. Hopkins officiating. It was a very pretty wedding and was witnessed by a large number of friends and reatives. The bride was attired in a white silk gown, and Miss Beatrice Adams, who acted as bridesmaid, wore a dove-colored silk. After the ceremony an elegant wedding supper was served at the home of the groom. Mr. Adams is in the office of the general superintendent of the Wheeling & Lake Erie railroad in this city. The bride is an accomplished young lady, whose host of friends wish her no end of happiness. Mr. and Mrs. Adams will be at home at 1827 Ontario street.

ANOTHER WEEKLY PAPER.

The Labor Record, which has heretofore been printed monthly, appears this week as a pictorial weekly, the latest addition to Toledo newspaperdom. It is a twelve page sheet and is published by Dan Mynihen, an old printer and a right good fellow. It is illustrated and is to be devoted to the instruction and amusement of laboring men and their families. The first number of the weekly augurs well for its future success.

'TWILL STILL BE MAJOR LEMMON.

Representative officers of the various companies of the Sixteenth regiment, O. N. G., met at the Boody house, to nominate a candidate for the majorship, to fill the vacancy caused by the expiration of Major M. B. Lemmon's term.

The following officers were present: Capt. Bulger, Co. D, Fostoria; Lieut. Douglass, Co. I, Clyde; Lieut. Peck, Co. B, Sandusky; Lieut. Rosbong, Co. A, Toledo; Lieut. Tanner, Co. C, Toledo; Capt. Holbrook, Co. A, Toledo; Lieut.-Col. H. S. Burker, Toledo.

There was no opposition to Major Lemmon, and he was unanimously nominated to succeed himself. On Monday the companies will meet and go through the form of election.

A canvassing board consisting of Major E. B. King, Capt. T. B. Barker and Lieut. T. M. Sloan, of Sandusky, will meet at Sandusky and canvass the vote.

BAD KIND OF DREAMS.

A Brooklyn Man's Mysterious Wounds.

He Awoke to Find That He Had Slashed His Throat While Asleep.

New York, Sept. 5.—An attempt to commit suicide was made by Jacob Hartwig, a former hardware merchant of Brooklyn, and he says that he cut his throat while dreaming, for he has no remembrance of the act.

About 2:30 a. m. he entered his wife's room and told her that some one had put tar over hi m, and he wanted her toget up and wipe it off. She told him he must have been dreaming and to go back to bed, but he persisted in his statement, and finally his wife arose and got a light and found that he was covered with blood, which was streaming from a wound in his neck.

The horror-stricken woman wiped the blood from the jagged cut in her husband's throat and bound it up with a towel.

A doctor was sent for and he found that the throat had been cut with a razor from under the right ear to the wind-pipe, just missing the carotid artery, and that a smaller cut had been made in the left side. His recovery is thought doubtful.

The razor with which the wounds were made lay on the bureau. Mrs. Hartwig said that her husband frequently woke up from horrible dreams and would imagine that they were real. In regard to cutting his throat he could tell nothing, so his wife believes he got a razor in his dream.

NAMES OF LONDON STREETS.

How and When Some of the Queer Ones Originated.

The following particulars relating to the origin of some of the names of the London streets, etc., may be of interest to many readers:

Birchin Lane was originally called Birchover's lane, after the name of the builder.

Bishopsgate is supposed to have been built by some bishop about the year 1200.

Charing Cross was so called from a cross set up by Edward I., in memory of his queen. Charing was then a village.

Cheapside derives its name from there having been a market there, which in Saxon is "a chepe."

Covent (i. e. Convent) Garden was formerly a garden belonging to the abbot and convent of Westminster. It was granted in 1552 to John, Earl of Bedford.

Gracechurch street — formerly called Grass Church street—was so called from grass or herbs being sold there.

Gray's Inn was a house belonging to the Grays of Wilton, who resided there from 1315 till the reign of Edward III., when they devised it for use of students of the law.

St. James' Palace was anciently a hospital for lepers.

Leadenhall street takes its name from Leaden Hall, which was purchased by the city for a common market, and made free in 1619.

Lincoln's Inn was so called from being the inn, or town house, of Henry Lacy, Earl of Lincoln, who died there in 1310.

Lombard street took its name from the Lombards, and other foreign merchants, who assembled there twice every day before the building of the Royal Exchange.

St. Martin's-le-Grand was so called from a large college of secular priests, founded in 1056 and suppressed in 1548.

Marie lane was originally Mart lane, being a public mart.

Paternoster row was so called from the stationers, or text writers, who dwelt there and who wrote and sold all sorts of books then in use.

Piccadilly was so called from the Piccadillos, i. e., the stiff collars or bands, formerly worn, by which a tailor got an estate and built the first houses there.

Shoreditch derives its name, not, as has been supposed, by Jane Shore's dying there, but from Sir John Shore, or Soordeitch, its lord of the manuer in the reign of Edward III.

Smithfield was used as a market in Fitz Stephen's time, more than 700 years ago.

CAUSED BY A CLOUDBURST.

Paris, Sept. 5.—In Thursday's storm a waterspout caused terrible damage to market gardens and vineyards in the environs of the city. In Paris many houses were invaded by hordes of rats, driven out of the sewers by the floods. Scientists assert that the Eiffel tower causes electrical disturbances and that the climate here has been much worse since the town was built.

THE EMPEROR'S SORE KNEE.

Vienna, Sept. 5.—The Emperor William's activity in mounting and dismounting yesterday while witnessing the cavalry manoeuvres has caused him some fatigue in his recently injured leg. The manoeuvres proved of great interest to the critics present. Smokeless powder was used to a great extent. The officers had to exert their utmost skill to prevent confusion.

DISCUSSING THE JEWS.

Copenhagen, Sept. 5.—M. Arnold White was granted an audience with the czar in regard to the Baron Hirsch scheme. Another interview is expected soon. It is understood that the conferences are of a satisfactory character.

FORCED TO RESIGN.

Philadelphia, Sept. 5.—Director of Public Safety George Rone charged with irregularities while superintendent of the almshouse, has tendered his resignation to Mayor Stuart.

FAILURE IN DETROIT.

Detroit, Sept. 5.—Smith & Moyer, lumber dealers, have assigned.

BED-ROOM SUITS — You will be surprised how beautiful in design and finish. Be sure and see them. STOLBERG & PARKS.

FOUGHT TO A DRAW.

Providence, R. I., Sept. 5.—"Bobby" Burns of this city and Cal McCarthy of Jersey City fought a 15-round draw last night at Olneyville. The fight was for $250 a side.

TO PETOSKEY, TRAVERSE CITY, BENZONIA, CRYSTAL LAKE AND RETURN FOR $5.00.

Thursday, Sept. 10, the Toledo, Ann Arbor & North Michigan railway will run its annual excursion to the above points. Train will leave Tole to at 6 a. m. Tickets will be sold for $5 and will be good to return on any regular train until Sept. 19 inclusive.

FIRST WARD DEMOCRATS

Get Together in a Club Organization,

Under the Plan Suggested by the Central Club—Officers Elected and Work Will Proceed.

A goodly number of First ward democrats met last evening on Magnolia street, in the vacant store at the corner of Huron, and took the preliminary steps for the formation of a strong organization which shall aid in the work of the present campaign as well as in the future.

William Beatty was chosen temporar chairman and Henry C. Ernsthausen secretary. The former explained the plan proposed by the Lucas county Central Democratic club, and it was determined to unite with the parent club. The following officers were then chosen by acclamation:

President—Col. J. H. Puck.

First vice president—Judge P. A. MacGahan.

Second vice president—Anthony Kraus.

Secretary—Henry C. Ernsthausen.

Treasurer—E. D. Potter, jr.

Messrs. Ernsthausen, Bert Morris and Rudolph Mathias were appointed as a committee to secure permanent headquarters, to report at the next meeting, which will be held at the call of President Puck.

The following democrats were proposed by various gentlemen present, and they were elected as members:

J H Puck,	Jos Loeb,
H Hood,	Thos Lange,
M Jackson,	C C Mellerd,
P A MacGahan,	Wm Bell,
Henry Scharf,	John Morris,
Rudolph Mathias,	Sam Gaughan,
Fred Schultz,	Samuel Allman,
H C Ensthausen,	Jos Werner,
H Sherman,	John Dimmer,
A L Backus,	Frank Adams,
J W Russell,	Frank Osborn,
Wm Radbone,	Geo Loeb, jr,
J M Wigton,	John Fleming,
E H Selving,	H P Platt,
E D Scrafford,	J R Booth,
Geo F Bell,	A Farquharson,
A G Clark,	A W Fischer,
A L Just,	F L Gallagher,
L H Pike,	Ed Todd,
Geo Lange,	Frank Brigham,

I Wernert,	C M Hill,
J W Callard,	N M Hall,
Frank Dimmer,	H Norton,
Thos Rowe,	J Wagner,
R J Garvin,	J R Seney,
Phil Redding.

Many more will likely be added at the next meeting. The officers are well known democrats, and possess the confidence of the party. Hearty co-operation is expected on the part of every member of the club, and this no doubt will be given with pleasure.

PERSONAL MENTION.

Mr. H. C. Vortriede is in Buffalo.

Mrs. A. B. Waite, of Jefferson street, is very seriously ill.

Mr. and Mrs. B. A. Stevens returned from the east this morning.

Mrs. Chas. Ladue has returned from a pleasant trip to Parmer, Mich.

Mrs. J. P. Wells, of Wauseon, visited Toledo friends Thursday.

The Misses Taylor, of Madison street, are home from an outing in the country.

Miss Addie Worts, of Locust street, left this morning to visit relatives in Cleveland.

Miss Esther Brinkerhoff has returned from a trip in eastern Ohio and Pennsylvania.

Mrs. A. Riffle, of New Orleans, is the guest of her husband's parents, of Segur avenue.

Mrs. Dan Segur gave a pleasant tea party for Mrs. Martindale, of Fort Worth, Thursday.

Mrs. John D. Fuller has returned from Ft. Wayne, Ind., after a three weeks' visit with relatives.

Thursday morning a tally-ho party, chaperoned by Mr. and Mrs. Isaac D. Smead, drove to Genoa.

Robbie, the little son of Prof. and Mrs. Maguire, of Auburndale, is convalescing from severe illness.

Mr. Norman Hankett, son of Capt. Hankett, has been visiting at Mrs. Alex Carpenter's the past week.

Mr. and Mrs. James P. Locke and Miss Nellie Locke leave to-day for Star island. They will be absent about a week.

Mrs. Blair and little daughter, of West Woodruff avenue, are at Minneapolis, where the little one is improving in health.

Mrs. Frank Hathaway and her sister, Mrs. Martindale, of Fort Worth, Texas, leave for St. Louis next week for a fortnight's visit.

Mrs. Nellie A. Bacon spent a part of the week at Detroit on business connected with the children's committee of the Humane society.

Prof. C. C. Miller, state commissioner of common schools, was in the city yesterday, and paid the BEE a pleasant call. He also visited the new BEE building.

Miss Nellie Locke, having finished her summer classes in painting and drawing at Port Clinton, was the recipient of an elegant present from her pupils.

Cards are out announcing the marriage of Mr. Starling Souder and Miss Edna Coffin on the evening of September 15, at the Third Congregational church.

Mrs. A. M. Johnston, of Toledo, has had a delightful visit with Mrs. Robert Bell and Mrs. Feil, at Bradford, Pa. Mrs. Johnston will visit Buffalo before returning home.

Mrs. Chris Wall, nee Miss Bassie Oesterman, who is playing in Hands Across the Sea will be in Toledo a short time to-morrow afternoon en route with the company for the east.

THE POPE ILL.

Rome, Sept. 5.—The Capitan Fracassa to-day announced that the pope, on Wednesday last, was attacked by an acute visceral derangement.

The newspaper adds that the physicians in attendance upon the pope insist that he must take the most absolute rest.

The condition of the pope, according to the same authority, is causing his physicians and attendants considerable apprehension.

The following extract from a letter received from a Scotch flour firm speaks for itself:

ADMISSION, 50 CENTS.

A DOUBLE MURDER.

Terrible Fate of Two Tennessee Girls.

Brutally Assaulted, Killed, and Their Bodies Consumed in a Burning Building.

Nashville, Tenn., Sept. 5.—A horrible story of a double murder reached here last night from Livingston, Overton county, about 50 miles from the railroad.

Sunday night the family of Wm. Smith went to church, leaving two girls, 17 and 19 years of age, in the house alone. About nine o'clock a neighbor noticed an unusual light in the direction of Smith's house.

He ran over and found the house rapidly burning. He arrived just in time to see the bodies of the two girls, both dead, lying on the floor in the center of a down stairs room. Their faces were covered with blood and their clothing disordered.

So fierce were the flames that the bodies could not be rescued. The girls had undoubtedly been assaulted and murdered, after which the house was set on fire.

The family was a very respectable one. One of the girls had been married about six weeks.

FILED OUT OF JAIL.

Missouri Criminals Make a Successful Break.

Poplar Bluff, Mo., Sept. 5.—Yesterday morning at 4 o'clock nine prisoners confined in the Butler county jail made their escape by cutting through the floor of the jail corridor, in which they were confined, removing about four square feet of brick mason work underneath the floor and then cutting through the brick outer wall.

The most difficult work the prisoners had in the undertaking was to make an opening through the floor, which was one-fourth inch boiler iron, sufficiently large to admit their passage. This they did by filing with a large mill file which confederates from the outside had passed in to them.

Visitors to this year's fair at Detroit, greatly disappointed at the falling off from last year's exhibit, are of opinion that it is still an "international" exposition because the pop-corn man from Windsor came over to sell his wares.

If Commissioner Roosevelt has said, as he is reported to have said, that he is "not dissatisfied with the course of the administration toward the civil service commission" then he is a hypocrite with a great, big H, and that's all there is of that.

The American hog has got into Germany at last. The multitude of congratulatory telegrams sent to Washington from all over the country on this success is evidence of how keenly the people feel the congested conditions of trade, how utterly inadequate is the home market to use up the supplies this great producing country furnishes so easily.

If the wool product in Ohio amounts to twenty-six million pounds this year, as estimated, the loss to the producers by the fall in prices since the McKinley tariff went into effect, placing the decline at three cents a pound, as it averages according to Bradstreet, is $780,000. "The tariff is not the issue in this campaign," say the Ohio republican editors. See?

It would not do to go down among the Fall River workmen to-day and tell them protection protects. With reduced wages threatening them at winter's approach, because the "home market" is so glutted with their goods that the manufacturers are tempted to shut down their works altogether, these poor men and women have no use for a false theory. It is an ugly condition that confronts them.

The republicans of Lucas county have renominated Jacob Englehardt for county commissioner, thereby endorsing his notorious remark that law or no law the commissioners will do as they d—n please anyhow. There has been too much of that spirit in the commissioners' office the past few years, and a depleted treasury is the result. The tax payers of the county ought to defeat Mr. Englehardt by two thousand majority.

The Dublin Daily Express attributes the ravages of the floods in the Darrow valley, Ireland, to the nationalist obstruction tactics in parliament. At this distance the connection is not clear. However, it is none of our business. What we have to do is to figure out how the high tariff caused this year's abundant harvests at home, as President Harrison and all the lesser republican speechifiers are insisting it did.

Ex-Speaker Reed delivered an eulogy on Hannibal Hamlin, in which he said:

No man ever found Mr. Hamlin to fail of his word, and no enemy ever charged him with the betrayal of a friend. These are simple virtues; but if you think they can be predicated of every man who in this republic has reached similar high stations, you have not lived with your eyes wide open.

It is believed that the sick man at Bar Harbor smiled grimly over his morning tea and toast while he read the oration, and was heard to remark that Mr. Reed knew how that was himself.

The course of true love runs very rough for a young man in New York city. His betrothed was a London young lady to whom he sent an engagement ring. They quarreled by mail, and the young lady sent the ring back, as a token that their little international episode was over. All this is an ordinary story, however unpleasant to the parties chiefly interested. Now comes the peculiar circumstance that makes the New York young man's case unique. His Tiffany ring, his because the young lady would none of it, was seized at the custom house, and held until he paid $46 duty on it. The irony of fate never had a more cruel edge than this, nor the absurdities of our revenue system a sharper showing up.

A WORD TO DEMOCRATS.

If Lucas county gives a republican majority this year it will be the fault of the democrats. Never in the history of the politics of this county was the republican party so distracted by quarrels and bad official conduct as at the present time.

The senatorial fight is fierce and the way the Sherman and Foraker crowds have quarreled is astounding. The man who thinks the trouble can be smoothed over before election is not well up in the study of human nature as applied to modern politics.

The selfassumed boss-ship of Mr. Squire is sure to cause an unhealable row.

The third-termism of Mr. Griffin becomes still more odious when attached to his devious and off-color record of the past two years, and will not help his party in November.

The public be d—d policy of Jake Engelhardt is rank and exceedingly offensive to the tax payers of the county.

The deplorable condition of the county finances, under the administration of three republican commissioners is an appeal to the voters to right-about by placing one democrat on the board this fall.

The over-charges certified by the republican county surveyor and allowed by the republican commissioners is a warning to the tax payers against the election of the republican county ticket this fall.

These offenses, and more, are chargeable to the republican ring in Toledo, and the appeal for honest and economical administration is made to the people of Lucas county.

The democrats have a golden opportunity this campaign.

First resolve to stand together. Let all differences be buried forever. Unite as one man for the success of the party and the welfare of the county. Stand shoulder to shoulder in this campaign, fellow-democrats, and victory will surely follow.

Nominate an unexceptionable ticket and the independent vote and the reform republican vote will be freely cast for every candidate on the democratic ticket.

Now is the accepted time.

Rally to the democratic standard.

LONELY LIFE ON FARMS.

A week or two ago the Bee deplored the tendency of the country youth to drift cityward, and expressed the opinion that the fundamental reason for leaving the farm was that rural life was too monotonous and barren of all those innocent recreations to be obtained in the cities. In the September number of the Forum a paper on "The Farmer's Isolation and the Remedy," by Mr. John W. Bookwalter offers much the same conclusion. Some people of distempered and superficial minds will be quick to say that Millionaire Bookwalter can give cheap advice about farmers' methods of living, but that if there were no millionaires there would be no discontented farmers, and that he had better talk of something he knows more about.

The majority of readers are, however, fair-minded enough to admit that every millionaire is not a villain, any more than every tramp is a saint, and that any honest man may express an opinion upon a public question, even if he be so fortunate as to be rich. As to knowledge, Mr. Bookwalter says in this article: "With very short intervals my life, up to the age of twenty-three, was passed on a farm in the Wabash valley." His most impressionable years, therefore, were spent among the conditions he defines and deplores, and as he also says these years were divided between the district school, labor in the fields, and helping his mother in work about the house, it may be inferred his family were seeing the hardest and most meagre side of farm life.

Mr. Bookwalter points out the causes of farm isolation and the resultant unloveliness of that form of life with clearness and sympathy, but it is his suggested remedy that makes his article interesting. He considers with his readers a hypothetical case, stated as follows:

Let us assume that the now isolated farmers of a tract five miles square are gathered into a central farm village, of say one hundred families. The gains under such a system, it seems to me, would be of three kinds: The purely physical, decreasing labor and increasing product; the intellectual; and, most important of all, the social and moral.

As to the first of these gains, the village would have well, cistern, bath-house, laundry, bakery, creamery, ice-house. One of each for the hundred families, and that one a hundred times better than if there were a hundred. Money saved, labor saved, and sociability promoted. Butcher shop and grocery at hand, so that supplies would always be fresh and bought in such quantities as economy dictated. Domestic help easy to obtain and possible to keep, two things forever uncertain on the farm.

He finds the possibility of gains in an intellectual way almost limitless, but specifies the village club, the evening school, the library, the music-hall, the reading room, the debating society, the church brought nearer. The things that contribute to the intellectual gain round out and make up the social and moral gain.

As is suggested in conclusion this farm village scheme cannot be regarded as Utopian, since such exist in old-world countries, yet it may be too much to hope for its adoption here, although for such beneficial results the trial of any scheme might be justified. The plan he has here outlined, Mr. Bookwalter will put to practical test, as he is about to plant a farm village in the midst of 12,000 acres in Pawnee county, Nebraska.

With all the conditions that seem to threaten a not remote war in Europe it is safe to predict it will not come this year. Not a nation of those embroiled is able to feed its people as they should be fed, and not one will dare to put powder and shot in the hands of men demanding bread, lest the guns be pointed in a direction not intended.

SLAP AT SHERMAN.

Young James Garfield, son of the murdered President, has been defeated by ex-Speaker E. L. Lampson in the Cleveland republican convention for the state senate nomination. He is let down easily by the assurance that his defeat was not so much in disparagement of himself as a "slap at Sherman."—N. Y. Telegram.

A TALK ON THE WEATHER.

Prof. Foster Tells of Coming Storms.

Earthquake Shocks to Again Alarm the People.

September Is Evidently Going to be a Bad Month for the Men Who Go to Sea.

St. Joseph, Mo., Sept. 5.—(Special)—My last letter gave forecasts of the storm wave due to cross the continent from September 3 to 6, and the next will be due to leave the Pacific coast about the 8th, cross the Rocky Allegheny valley from 9th to 11th and reach the Atlantic coast about the 12th. The important feature of this storm wave will be the radical change it will bring from summer's warm to fall's cool weather.

Preceding this storm wave the weather will be quite warm and following it quite cool, with frosts in many northern localities. It will probably develop tornadoes east of the Mississippi river and hurricanes in the West Indies and in the East Indies. The greatest force of the storms will be developed all around the earth about September 12. At that time there will be four principal storm waves moving eastward north of latitude 30.

On this continent the storm wave will be in the eastern states on the Atlantic coast. Following it another off the coast of Oregon on the Northern Pacific. A third will be near Japan and a fourth in central Europe. Earthquake shocks may be expected at the same time in earthquake countries.

I expect this disturbance to add further evidence that we are approaching a period of very great storms. The rain period that comes about every fifty-two days will come with storm wave. Not much increase in the total rainfall in the United States, but a more general distribution of rainfall.

Three more storm waves, similar to that described above, may be expected during this month, and the first of these will be due to leave the Pacific coast about September 14, cross the Rocky Allegheny valley from 15th to 17th, and reach the Atlantic coast about the 18th. On the 18th it will become a terrific storm on the New England coast, while at the same time stormy weather may be expected in the Mississippi valley, with severe local storms.

Weather and Science Notes.

For their third successful attempt at rainmaking in Texas the dynamiters selected another of my storm dates. My storm was due to leave the Pacific coast on the morning of the 27th, and the maps show that it took a southern route. While the moisture-laden atmosphere was moving from the Gulf of Mexico to the storm center then northwest of Texas the bombarders sent their explosives into the current and in about ten hours the front of the predicted storm wave arrived and the rain descended. Usually the hot air rising from the sun-burnt earth dissipates the moisture-laden storm wave and prevents precipitation, and I am of opinion that the bombardment has some effect in causing an upward flowing vortex, constituting a local low barometer around which the moisture of the incoming storm wave concentrates. The experiments are not conclusive, but the experimenters have earned another appropriation by congress for further tests.

In May of this year a tropical hurricane off the Florida coast caused a cold wave to move from north of Montana toward Florida which totally neutralized a storm wave then in the Missouri valley. I had predicted an unusual number of these tropical hurricanes for this year, but for want of a better record of the weather in the West Indies I am not yet able to forecast the dates on which these hurricanes will enter the Caribean and Mexican waters, therefore, as they never fail to disorganize the weather on the continent, my forecasts will not hold good when one of these tropical hurricanes appears on the Atlantic.

The recent West India hurricane at Martinique occurred as the high barometer was approaching the Mississippi valley from Montana, and the hurricane made such demands on this high barometer for its downpour of air that its force was greatly increased, resulting in extensive frosts in the northwestern states, an unusual event for August.

The old school of meteorologists at Washington who have been operating the weather bureau for twenty years are so wedded to their old theories that they cannot see the real cause of our early fall and late spring frosts and the cold waves of winter.

A few years ago the weather bureau sent an expert meteorologist to a northwestern station to observe and study these cold waves. Just as well have sent him to China. If he had gone to the West Indies and gathered all the information possible about these tropical storms we would now have correct information on which to forecast these cold waves and frosts, and great progress could be made in long range forecasts.

The greatest benefits derived from the cold wave observer who was sent to Minnesota went to the grain speculators of Chicago and New York who are greatly interested in gathering, at government expense, the latest frost news about the weather.

A bureau of agricultural meteorology has been proposed for the purpose of perfecting a system of long range forecasts. Only such forecasts can be of any practical use to the producers.

The shipping interests and the cereal speculators reap about all the benefits derived from the information gathered and the forecasts made by the weather bureau, and in the case of the speculators it amounts to a tax on the producers for the benefit of the cereal speculators. Government maintains signal stations and telegraph lines in the extreme northwest which bring early reports of the coming frosts, cold waves and sudden changes, and on that information the grain speculators take advantage of the producers and shippers.

Ten hours' notice of a great frost is sufficient for a Chicago or New York city grain ring to make a million dollars, when the country producers and dealers ought to reap the benefit. It does not require prophetic vision to see that agricultural interests will soon tire of paying an expense that is used to take advantage of them, and unless the weather bureau can be made useful to agriculture the time is not far away when it will fail to obtain appropriations.

Three planetary meteorologists and a clerk can operate a bureau of agricultural meteorology at one-fifth of the expense of the present weather bureau, and such a bureau would soon perfect a system of long range forecasts, including the seasons, frosts, cold waves, the various kinds of destructive storms, and other changes of the weather, and the effects on the growing crops.

The chief of this bureau should be elected biennially by the first session of the lower house of each congress in order that agricultural interests may be assured that its work will be conducted in the interest of the producers instead of the speculators.

It is not proposed to interfere with the present weather bureau. Let it continue to record the weather events, but that record must be made of practical utility to the producers.

This is a question that should be discussed through the press before congress assembles. Planetary meteorology is yet in its infancy, but it promises greater benefits to the general public than is possible to be derived from the system which has been sustained at public expense for more than twenty-one years.

LUCAS COUNTY TEACHERS

Close a Successful Institute—Election of Officers—Educational Principles.

The Lucas County Teachers' institute closed yesterday afternoon, after a most successful week's work. There were 326 names on the roll, this being the best record for years.

State School Commissioner C. C. Miller and Col. D. F. DeWolf addressed the teachers in the afternoon. The able instructors, Anna M. Osgood, Prof. Bumbaugh and Prof. H. C. Adams each addressed the teachers before leaving the work.

An election of officers, by ballot, resulted as follows:

President—L. E. Webb.
Vice-President—Miss Hattie Morlock.
Secretary—Miss Anna M. Conliss.
Executive Committee—H. C. Adams, Mrs. S. E. Ecker, Anna M. Conliss.

A local branch of the "Ohio Teachers' Reading Circle" was organized at High school yesterday. The following officers were elected:

President—N. E. Hutchinson.
Vice-President—R. C. Van Gorder.
Secretary and Treasurer—Anna M. Conliss.

The ten following educational principles advanced by Prof. Bumbaugh, of the institute, are worthy of the careful perusal of those interested in the art of teaching:

1. The primary object of education is the perfection of the individual.
2. This perfection is attained by a harmonious development of all his powers.
3. These powers develop in a natural order, which should be followed in education.
4. The basis of this development is the self-activity of the child.
5. This activity has two distinct phases —from without inward, and from within outward.
6. These two phases should go hand in hand in education.
7. There must be objective realities to supply the conditions of this activity.
8. Education creates nothing; it only aids in developing existing possibilities.
9. Education in its primary forms should aim at the unification of its mental activities.
10. A system of education should attain the triune result; development, learning and efficiency.

CALLED HIM A LIAR

And Then, of Course, Took Back the Statement.

Exciting Scenes During the Convict Miner Discussion in Tennessee.

Nashville, Tenn. Sept. 5.—One of the most exciting scenes ever witnessed in the state legislature occurred in the senate yesterday. It was brought about by the discussion of a resolution offered by Mr. Alexander, reviewing the disturbance at Briceville in July last. The mob, the resolution said, was excited by incendiary speeches of certain leaders.

Speeches for and against the resolution were made. Mr. Early, who requested Mr. Alexander to answer an inquiry, was told by Mr. Alexander that he would not reply to a man who made a speech last night that would incite the miners and tend to array them against the people. Mr. Early rose to a question of privilege and in his speech said that his record was clearer than that of Mr. Alexander. Mr. Alexander instantly said to Mr. Early: "You are an infamous liar."

Mr. Early thereupon advanced toward Mr. Alexander, but in an instant both the angry senators were in the grasp of associates and were prevented from getting any closer. When quiet had been restored Mr. Alexander expressed to the senate regret that such a scene had occurred, but did not apologize to Mr. Early. The latter then made an apology and Mr. Alexander followed suit. The resolution was then laid on the table. The most important measure in the house to-day was the final passage of a bill that will save the state $100,000 a year and do away with professional witnesses.

EXPOSITION WEEK.

The Big Show Promises to Eclipse Anything Heretofore Attempted.

The Toledo Exposition opens Monday and promises to be the finest display of the kind ever arranged in this city. The entries have been coming in for the last few months from all over the country. The field has been widened, and the exhibits from this locality are large, still those from a distance will prove doubly interesting and greatly enhance the exposition. Numerous attractions have been arranged for each day and there will be plenty to see, hear and think about. The entries for the races insure good sport. Friday is to be Children's day, and the city schools are to be closed on that occasion.

The exposition has been advertised to a greater extent in the surrounding territory this year than any before and better paper has been used. The railroads have all made low rates, and the city will be crowded with strangers during the week.

WASHINGTON NOTES.

Washington, Sept. 5.—The treasury department to-day purchased 878,000 ounces of silver at 982 to 9825 per ounce.

The offers were 1,494,000 ounces.

A five-dollar conscience contribution from Bloomington, Ill., was received by Treasurer Nebeker to-day.

The corporate existence of the Wellsburg National bank of Wellsburg, W. Va., was to-day extended until September 5, 1911.

The First National bank of Breckenridge, Minn., has asked authority to establish a national bank.

BROUGHT BACK THE BOAT.

Gloucester, Mass., Sept. 5.—The schooner Knight Templar arrived from Canso, N. S., to-day, in charge of Capt. McDonald and John Hodge, one of the owners. The Knight Templar went on a fishing trip to the Georges under the command of Capt. Andrew Grimes. Instead of fishing, the skipper is said to have spent his time carousing at Canso. He made heavy, and the firm say fraudulent, drafts on the owners and then deserted the vessel.

DEMOCRATIC DUTY.

The people have made the present House of Representatives democratic by an extraordinary majority. They have done so with a well-defined purpose. Their votes were given in protest against an iniquity, and the men they have elected are charged by them with the duty of correcting that iniquity by legislation.—N. Y. World.

AUDACIOUS BUT HONEST.

Thomas Brackett Reed refuses to be reconciled to the reciprocity business. This time last year he was hailed by thousands of republicans as a bigger man than James Gillespie Blaine. It should be said for Reed that, while he is audacious, he is not tricky; he has no fondness for sleight-of-hand politics.—Wheeling Register.

READY FOR BLOODSHED.

New York, Sept. 5.—The steamer Alert, from Hayti, says foreigners are leaving the country. President Hippolyte's family were leaving Port au Prince for Cape Hayti. It was thought the revolution was about to break out.

WILL BE AN ITALIAN.

The Nationality of the Pope's Successor Settled.

The Only Question is Who is the Man.

Emperor Francis Josef to Visit Prague this Fall—General Foreign News.

London, Sept. 5.—The statement from Rome that the next pope will be an Italian makes no ripple among English Catholics. No Catholic of any prominence here has ever thought any other selection probable, or even possible.

A Rome correspondent says that the Italian cardinals there are of one mind as to the selection of an Italian, although not unanimous as to the man. Cardinal Sanfelice, archbishop of Naples, is more prominently mentioned than any other. He is a prelate of the reactionary school, an uncompromising supporter both of the spiritual and temporal claims of the papacy, and on the worst terms with the Italian authorities, who deeply offended him by their recent invasion and suppression of the convent of the nuns known as "The Buried Alive."

Should Sanfelice succeed to the tiara, there would be no probability of any amicable arrangements with the kingdom of Italy. A reason given why the Italian cardinals insist on an Italian succession is that the selection of a foreigner would imperial any existence chance for the restoration of the temporal power, as the Italians who oppose the papal claims would then have a patriotic pretense for opposition to putting Rome under the yoke of an alien.

Indeed, no well-informed Catholic, either in Rome or London, has thought the question as to the nationality of the next pope within the domain of discussion. The only question is what Italian would be chosen.

As soon as the Austrian manoeuvres are over, or very soon thereafter, the Emperor Francis Joseph will pay his long-looked-for visit to Prague. Owing to demonstrations of an anti-German character that have been made in Prague this summer, it became doubtful whether the emperor would honor the exhibition with his presence, but it is now certan that the promised visit will take place.

Francis Joseph concluded to show that he considered himself ruler in any part of his dominions, and he will give the Bohemians a chance to prove whether they are or are not loyal to the empire. The Austrian garrison will be strengthened just before the imperial visit, and there is no doubt that any demonstrations of a hostile nature will be rigorously subdued.

A nail from the true cross has been added to the holy coat exhibition at Treves. The nail is accompanied by documents showing that it is genuine. The rush of pilgrims continues, but some disappointment is felt that so few miracles are reported. The consumption of beer in Treves this week has been so enormous that on Thursday it was apprehended that a beer famine might occur, but the arrival of a timely supply on Friday allayed all fears on that subject.

THE CITY'S BRIDGES.

Some of Them in Bad Shape—Harbormaster in a Quandary.

Harbor Master Skeldon has his hands full keeping the city's bridges in repair and with the limited funds at his command the work is considerably complicated. He is now repairing the planking on the Cherry street bridge, and to-night will put some new timbers in the Perry street bridge.

"Sometimes I hardly know what to do," said he. "All of these bridges need repairs, and there is no money in my fund to work with. The same timbers and under planks are in the Cherry street bridge that were put in when the bridge was built, and of course they are about gone by this time, and will be some expense to put it in good shape.

"The original stringers are also in the Perry street bridge, and 11 years is a long time for pine timber. The traffic over this bridge is tremendous, and the average citizen has but little idea of the teams and cars that pass over this bridge in a day. I am continually making repairs on it, but still the bridge is in bad shape. The Lafayette street bridge is not in use and has not been all summer, consequently the travel that would naturally have gone to that bridge comes to Perry street. Some $250 in repairs were put on the South street bridge last winter, but still it is not a good bridge. The old St. Clair street bridge is unsafe, and I hardly know how it holds together. There should be a new bridge there. The other bridges also need some repairs, but I can do nothing. In my opinion the city ought to keep this property up in good shape and money would be saved thereby. The bridges are necessary, and when they are kept in repair they will last much longer than when they are allowed to run down."

THIS GOVERNMENTS FAILURE.

This ends a seven months' war, in which the representatives elected by the people fought against the party of the man who wished to make himself Dictator. Tradition, history, and precedent should have led this country to sympathize or even assist the representatives of the people and of constitutional liberty. This the government has failed to do. And now, since the party she overlooked is victorious, American interests in Chili may suffer, and if they do, the government will know why.—Harper's Weekly.

THE PORK EMBARGO.

Washington, Sept. 5.—Secretary Rusk in a letter to Hon. W. A. Hatch, of Missouri, informing him of the removal of the prohibition of American pork by Germany says the thanks of the farmers of this country are due to Mr. Hatch for his efforts in his behalf and especially because of his advocacy before the house of representatives of the meat inspection bill without which the removal of the prohibition could not have been obtained.

WORLD'S FAIR LOAN.

Chicago, Sept. 5.—The national Columbian fair commission to-day referred to the judiciary committee, asking the co-operation of the commissioners in securing a loan of $5,000,000 from the government for the use of the fair, to be repaid out of the first receipts.

It was unanimously resolved to consider the Sunday closing, question as soon as it shall come properly before the commission.

SWAPPED HORSES.

THE KEELEY REMEDY

For The Great Evil of Drunkenness.

Rev. Dr. Waters, the Well Known Divine, Writes on the Subject —His Observations.

The purpose of this article is not to trace the causes of drunkenness and the steps by which so many reach this unfortunate condition, but to call attention to the "Keeley Theory and Treatment" of alcoholism, which is proving so satisfactory and successful. The prevalence of the drinking habit in so many Christian families will justify the insertion of this article in the columns of the Western, as it certainly would justify the religious press generally in giving much more space to the claims and demonstrated effects of the "Keeley Remedy."

For centuries, alcoholism or drunkenness has been the bane of the human family. It has prevailed, and still prevails in all communities; and, strangest of all, it prevails in Christian communities.

What is it? What is its nature? The majority of people say it is a "degrading habit," which can be conquered at will—a "social vice," based on a sort of moral perversity of the man. Viewed thus from its social side, the state says it is a misdemeanor of the man as a citizen. In some states it is made an offense punishable by imprisonment, as in Massachusetts. In Ohio, last winter, Representative Day offered a bill providing for the commitment of drunkards to hospitals under the supervision of the State Board. But this view of drunkenness stops short of its real nature. The physiological side must not be ignored. Viewed from this side, it is a disease—depends upon a diseased condition of the nervous system. This condition, of course, is self-induced; if not, the state could not be justified in treating it as a misdemeanor.

It is now quite generally admitted by medical science that the pathology of developed (not incipient) drunkenness is determined by post mortem examinations, and it is as well known as that of any other disease. Dr. Keeley is the first to discover a remedy for drunkenness as a disease. His investigations and experiments began while he was a surgeon in the army, and continued through a score of years, until he met with a quotation from a writer of the fifteenth century in reference to the value of gold as a remedial agent. "Following this ray of light," he says, "my experiments were then made with the various salts of gold used in medicine and, after countless efforts, sometimes doubting, often fearing, I at last discovered in the double chloride of gold the remedy sought.

Treating drunkenness as a disease, Dr. Keeley claims that his remedy has never yet failed when properly used. And in proof of his claim he cites thousands who have been cured by its use. Branch institutes have been opened in eight different states, which administer his remedy. Our institute here, at Marysville, O., is conducted by physicians who are well educated in their profession, successful practitioners, and have made a careful study of the Keeley remedies and the method of application. And their success is remarkable. We have, in and about our city, at least a dozen men whose transformation from drunkenness to sobriety—from insatiable craving of appetite to freedom from it—is the surprise and delight of all who knew them. The same cure has been effected for hundreds of others who have come here and taken the treatment.

This a posteori argument, where the cures effected are so numerous, must be conclusive. When we see a drooping, sickly plant, ready to perish, nursed back into a healthy and vigorous life, we are bound to believe the evidence of our eyes. When we see our neighbor who is prostrate of a fever, under the skillful treatment of his physician, recovering his wonted health, we make no question about such recovery. Precisely so when we see the drunkard transformed into a sober man, the bloat gone, the curse removed, brain and body cleansed of the poison of alcohol, the appetite for drink destroyed, hope and faith in life, renewed, we are compelled to say they are cured—cured in the fullest sense of the term. And I am glad to say that, every week, I see from five to ten of these transformed men leaving our city, and going back to home and life with new purposes and with new physical conditions for the future.

In the Keeley remedy I see light for thousands of darkened homes, and I write out of a conviction of this fact. I wish I might say something that would lead the Christian church and ministry to investigate the merits of this treatment for themselves. It will bear scrutiny. And surely many families of the church need the help which it offers.

I often hear Christian people say: "I have no confidence in any help for the drunkard but the grace of God." With such persons I have no contention about the competency of grace to do all that it proposes. But if drunkenness has its physical basis in a diseased condition of the nervous system, it is an open question as to how far the grace of God, directy and primarily, affects the physical organization and condition. That the secondary effects of grace are bracing and helpful to the physical man, I make no doubt, and further, grace, like all other vitifying forces, must have favorable conditions. Alcohol touches and blunts the moral faculties as well as the physical organization. It shuts out all gracious influences and ministries from the heart. Only a very small percentage of inebriates come under the influence of the gospel, and a still smaller percentage are saved by moral forces.

There may be some who are backward about taking this treatment from fear of lapsing back into the old habits. This system can give no more warrant against a lapse than it can give a man who is not given to drink that he never will take it up. It simply puts the drunkard back where he was before the habit of drunkenness was formed—free from the appetite. If he is inclined to help himself, it will be easy for him to remain free. And further, it is an indisputable fact that these cures will show quite as large a percentage of steadfastness as our revivals in our churches. The backslidings all deplore, but we do not allow five to ten per cent of backsliding to account against the efficacy of God's grace, the character of the faithful, or the duty of Christian effort. REV. W. G. WATERS.

HUNTING TRAIN ROBBERS.

Merced, Cal., Sept. 5.—Two men were arrested early this morning at Ceres and taken to Modesto, suspected of being pilicated in the attempted robbery of the south-bound train last night. One of the men was riding on the end of the baggage car at the time the train was held up, but claims to know nothing of it. The bridge over the Merced river was guarded all night, but the river was low and anybody could have easily forded it on horseback. It is generally believed the robbers have made for the mountains east of Merced, and if so their capture is doubtful. Physicians now say that Detective Harris' wound is not serious.

WORK STOPPED.

Berlin Sept. 5.—The government has ordered further coal mining in the vicinity of Gleiwitz, Prussian Silesia, stopped, owing to dangerous water springs having made their appearance in the mines.

REV. D. M. FISK,

The First Congregational's New Minister.

To-morrow Rev. D. M. Fisk, who was called to the First Congregational church some time since, will begin his labors. Communion service will occupy the morning, and in the evening Mr. Fisk will preach his first sermon.

At Jackson, Mich., where Mr. Fisk has served as pastor, the congregation are profuse in their praise of him. The church council adopted the following:

Whereas, The Rev. D. M. Fisk, having received a call to the pastorate of the First Congregational church of Toledo, Ohio, and

Whereas, After a prayerful consideration of said call, it seemed to him to be his duty to accept the same, and

Whereas, The general association of Michigan, at its meeting in May, 1882, took the following action, viz: When a pastorate is about to terminate for any cause except death, the pastor or the church, or either of them, in case the other refused, may call a council of neighboring churches, to inquire into and advise upon all ecclesiastical matters specified in the missive concerning it, but it shall be regarded as entirely orderly for the church and the pastor to dissolve the pastoral relations between them without the calling of a council (minutes of General Association, page 45); and

Whereas, Neither the church or pastor desire the calling of a council in the present instance; therefore,

Resolved, Though reluctantly, and at the same time recognizing the Christian character, ability, and the success he has been to us as a preacher, we, in accordance with the pastor's request, accept his resignation and declare that the pastoral relation shall be dissolved on the first day of September, 1891.

Besides the above the following were unanimously approved:

On this, the occasion of the severance of the pastoral relation heretofore existing between the First Congregational church of Jackson, Mich., and the Rev. Daniel M. Fisk, we, the said church, do hereby tender our retiring pastor, and to our sister church which is so soon to welcome him to all churches and communities which have been, or may hereafter be, honored by his presence, enlightened by his wisdom, inspired by his zeal or in any way blessed by his influence—these expressions as an open testimonial of our sincere regard:

First—Among the strongest ties that have bound us together as pastor and people, are those of gratitude for his self-sacrificing devotion to the spiritual and temporal interests of this church, and of deep and abiding affection toward him as a man of warm and generous impulses, and a symathizing brother to all, irrespective of their walk or station in life.

Second—We rejoice in the knowledge that these bonds have grown stronger with each recurring year of his pastorate, and in the belief that they cannot now be broken, but that the affection and gratitude of this people will follow him wherever, under the guidance of the divine Master, his lot may be cast.

Third—In calling attention to the temporal advancement of our church work under the pastorate of our brother, we refer with pride to the records of the various officers of the church, showing in detail the success which has crowned his untiring efforts in entirely clearing our house of worship of its longstanding bonded and floating indebtedness, the improvement and embellishment of our prayer and conference room, the building and furnishing within our parish limits of two commodious mission chapels, and the securing of a valuable site for the erection of a second church on the east side, all of which has been accomplished without incurring one dollar of indebtedness. Under the limitations which have environed this people we believe this is a record of practical financial activity and success seldom equaled in church history, and we cheerful accord to our pastor the large credit due his skillful management and his tireless patience and persistence in accomplishing these results.

Fourth—In his ministration to this church we have not failed to recognize, and we do heartily commend those qualities of mind and heart which exhibit illumined reason above ecclesiastical dogmatism; freedom of conscience above the bondage of creeds; the courage of conviction, though it bringeth it strife, above alliance with error, though it bringeth peace; a holy life above any orthodoxy of belief; and the compassionate love of God our Father above the frowning sovereignty of God our Judge.

Fifth—We have listened with satisfaction and profit to his interpretation of scriptural truth, and believe that his methods are powerful and effective in removing doubt, in disarming atheistic criticism and in stemming the tide of infidelity, in that they do harmonize the developments of so-called modern science with the essential doctrines of the bible and of the Christian religion—thus bringing into clearer light the reasonableness of the divine plan, as shown in the majesty, beauty and system of an orderly universe.

Sixth—While thus we do express our grateful appreciation of his public service to this church as its devoted pastor, we cannot forget that it is within the inner sanctuary of our homes that he has exemplified in a still higher degree the beauty and consistency of a life consecrated to the service of the divine Master, and, that it will be when the social circle gathers around the family hearthstone that our hearts shall most sadly miss and yearn for the loved and cheering presence of this our friend and brother.

Seventh—Though our hearts are troubled and filled with sorrow by reason of the formal dissolution of the ties which have so long held us together in the bond-age of love, yet are we comforted in the belief that the great Head of the Church ever knoweth and doeth those things which are best for His children.

That His tender and watchful care may ever strengthen, encourage and inspire the heart of His servant, our pastor, as he goes forth from us to a broader field of labor and usefulness, is the earnest and united prayer of this His Church in Jackson.

TICKELED TO DEATH.

A South Dakota Man Reads the Bee and Is Chuck Full of Joy.

F. N. Emrick, of Rapid City, South Dakota, sends the following which was published in the Germantown Press, to the officers and chevaliers of Canton Frank P. M.:

My Dear Red Brothers:

How! How!

You have again met the enemy and taken their scalps. The lustre you have thrown around the historical name of the Kickapoos makes it a name more radient than ever in the annals of history. With a sagacity characteristic of our tribe, I subscribed for the Toledo Bee for the week during your encampment. It is needless for me to tell you how my heart beat with pleasure and joy when I read how warrior-like and bold you conducted yourselves during the campaign just closed, and how worthy you are as successors of Tecumseh and his galaxy of braves. I read and tell my Sioux brethren here of my friends back east and it makes their hearts glad.

I can only say that I fervently wished that I could be with you and wear my Sioux ghost shirt in your dances around the fire.

Hoping that the virtues of "Sagwa" will safely and triumphantly conduct you through your future battles, and again heartily congratulating you one and all I beg to remain, etc.

BAD SKIN ERUPTION

Many Years—All Manner of Medicines and Doctors Fail—Cured in One Month by Cuticura.

In 1885 I had an eruption come out on my skin, and while at first it did not amount to much, it grew to be very aggravating and at times unbearable. The skin would get hard, inflamed and peel off, leaving an entire new skin, acting same way for weeks at a time, always worse at nights. Have tried all manner of medicines and had doctors prescribe to no effect. I bought a box of CUTICURA REMEDIES and used CUTICURA RESOLVENT for my blood. I am fully cured, and in less than a month. It was a most aggravating skin disease, and now I am enjoying ease and comfort. I have had untold benefits. Any one trying CUTICURA REMEDIES cannot help but derive benefit. Any one writing me will receive an answer and my advice to give your REMEDIES a trial.

Comes floating on the evening air;
No priestly voice, with sacred rite,
Breaks on the stillness of the night;
Nothing removes the solemn gloom
That gathers round the rich man's tomb.

No long procession wends its way,
Along the road from Calvary;
No measured tramp of human feet
Is heard resounding through the street;
And only strangers come to mourn,
While Jesus to his rest is borne.

It is the funeral of a King!
And yet no muffled vespers ring;
The funeral of the King of Kings!
But still no earthly monarch brings
A royal retinue to swell
The honors of his burial.

Down in his grave, with less parade,
No humblest man was ever laid.
A few poor, wretched women weep,
Looking on him in his calm sleep;
One of his own disciples here
The service of the dead to share.

With hastened hand and hurried stir,
Men place the spices and the myrrh
Within the linen cloth, that's wound
His scarred and sacred body round;
And then, with reverent step, they lay
His precious, mangled form away.

The work is done and all is still—
The empty cross upon the hill
Casts its dark shadows on the ground;
The Paschal moon illumes the mound
Where Jesus sleeps, secure from harm,
Beyond the reach of hostile arm.

In the lone garden where he lies,
No sounds from human voices rise,
But angels chant their anthems here,
Unheard by any mortal ear;
Watching all through the night alone—
Waiting to roll away the stone.

—T. M. Clark, D. D.

New York railroad men estimate that from 10,000 to 12,000 returning summer tourists arrived in that city on Monday. All the summer resorts in the state have been unusually crowded this season. More people have visited Saratoga, the Thousand Islands and Niagara Falls than ever before.

A single pound of good steam coal has within it dynamic power equivalent to the work of one man for one day. Three tons of the same coal represents a man's labor for the period of 20 years, and one square mile of a seam of coal, having a depth of four feet only, represents as much work as 1,000,000 men can perform in 20 years.

The use of substances which swell greatly on exposure to water has been often recommended as a protective armor for war vessels. The Danish ship Hecla is provided with a belt of cellulose three feet thick, and has recently been the subject of some interesting experiments. A five inch shot was fired at this belt and passed completely through the vessel, leaving two sharply cut holes in the cellulose. The holes closed up to such an extent that the water passing through was not sufficient to interfere with the working of the vessel, which steamed about without difficulty for three hours.

In the August number of Free Russia Stepniak draws a terrible picture of the impending famine in the land of the czar. He believes that it will be worse even than the famine of 1840. "The crops have been destroyed," he says, "or almost destroyed, in 26 provinces of European Russia. In six other provinces more than one-half of the districts will be afflicted with the same calamity. In 15 provinces the harvest promises to be middling, sufficient for the needs of the population, leaving no surplus. Only in the Northern Caucasus, in the few northern provinces and in three districts of the southeast is the harvest expected to be above the average." He declares also that "thousands of people are starving upon grass boiled in water," that people have died in the streets of hunger and that children are offered for sale by parents who do not wish to see them perish before their eyes.

Mr. W. H. Preece, chief electrician to the English postal department, gives some interesting information concerning the use of creosote in increasing the life of wood. The average life of an ordinary uncreosoted telegraph pole is, according to Mr. Preece, about seven years, whereas a line of creosoted poles about 20 miles in length, put down in 1848, were taken up in 1881, and were then perfectly sound. On the Great Western railway it is found that the life of uncreosoted sleepers is five years, and that of creosoted sleepers eight to ten years, and many last to double that length of time. In tropical regions timber is very rapidly destroyed by marine insects, more particularly the teredo navalis and limnoria. On the Pacific and Atlantic shores of the United States it is found that uncreosoted piles are destroyed in two years, whereas creosoted piles last from five to six years. Since then this process doubles the life of timber, and the cost of treatment is not more than 25 per cent. of the prime cost of the material, the advisability of creosoting all exposed timber becomes manifest.

The city of Chicago has the credit of having introduced in its telephone exchange a very useful "busy" call, which enables a caller-up of a "busy" line to have his call placed on record, so that it will have attention so soon as the line is clear. A further improvement has now been arranged by the electrician of the same exchange. Under the former arrangement, when "busy" tickets were made out and distributed at the "target" or "busy" board, the call sometimes passing through the hands of several operators. In the new system the tickets are distributed to six operators, each operator receiving only the tickets belonging to her section. The distributor consists of a brass box, two inches in width and 21 feet in length, having six channels, each channel terminating in a slot placed before an operator. Under the box passes a cotton band, forming an endless belt. At one end of the distributor is placed a desk composed of six sections, each section being provided with six slots, and each slot leading to one of the six channels of the distributer. At each section of this desk an operator is stationed, who receives the "busy" call, writes out the ticket and deposits it in the channel, which bears it to the operator at the "busy" board, whose duty it is to make the connections as soon as the line is free.

THEY MAKE YOU LAUGH.

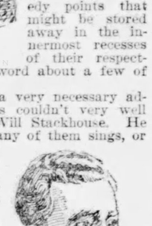
Some Toledo Boys Who Can Kick Up.

They are Around When the Curtain Goes Up to Dole Out Comedy or Pathos.

The boys who make you laugh: there are quite a few of them in Toledo. It don't take long to scrape around and find enough to put on anything from a refined concert to a rough and tumble minstrel performance. The climate seems to be particularly good for them in this vicinity, and develops all the musical and comedy points that might be stored away in the innermost recesses of their respective anatomies. A word about a few of them:

Will Stackhouse.

The orchestra is a very necessary adjunct, and the boys couldn't very well get along without Will Stackhouse. He can play any piece any of them sings, or ever did or ever will sing. If he don't know it he can fake it, a very rare quality, one that makes the successful musical director. Many and many a time the boys go on the stage without a rehearsal, feeling confident that after they have uttered the first note that "Stack" will be with them and will be banging up and down the scale with variations before the song is finished. There are very few men in the country as proficient in this respect as Mr. Stackhouse. Besides these qualifications he is an able song writer and a brilliant composer. His songs are sung far and wide, and several of them have made big hits in the musical comedy world.



Bert St. John.

Bert St. John always was clever, and as they say in the business, can "make people eat" anything he chooses to sing or do in the comedy line. Mr. St. John is especially good in eccentric comedy parts, and has the knack of approaching perfection in the art of making up. One of his best characters, perhaps, is that of Billy Simpkins, a part played by him in "Little Nugget." Let Stackhouse write a song and St. John sing it and you've got a turn that catches the house from pit to dome.

Gus Leibius.

Gus Leibius is always somewhere around and near the top, too. His specialty is with his feet, for one will seldom run across a more clever or graceful dancer. He can turn his talents, too, to comedy work both genteel and rough. He is small and slight, and some of his best work has been done in impersonating female characters. His imitation of Carmencita, the Spanish dancer, is one of the best things he does.

Chas. O'Brien.

Charlie O'Brien is another of the boys who is happiest when behind the footlights. His specialty is Irish business, although his powers are by no means confined to this limitation. He has portrayed the Irishman in a hundred different characters. His songs are always well rendered and he has not acquired a habit possessed by many Irish comedians of chewing his words so that no one but the author can recognize what the are saying. O'Brien always makes a hit, and is generally about when the band plays.

George Leibius.

When it comes down to good singing, George Leibius is the boy who can dive it out from his upper register and lower basement. It is a good deal to say, but there are few singers in the country who can excel Mr. Leibius. His voice is high, pure, sweet flexible and under perfect control. He can hold an audience as long as he will respond to encores. Then, too, unlike most tenors, he can act, dance, and is especially clever in comedy.

George W. Stevens.

Geo. W. Stevens generally comes in somewhere on the program. He prefers character songs, and disports himself in Dutch, Irish, Italian, French and negro dialect specialties.

Most of these boys have at one time or other followed the professional stage, and some of them will do so again; but while they are following other peaceful pursuits of life they have a desire to put on the war paint once in a while and get out and kick up—and they do.

THEATRICAL.

Two Well Recommended Plays to Be Presented Next Week

At the People's Monday evening the Ivy Leaf opens for a week's engagement. The piece is a strong one and is interspersed with all the latest songs, jigs and reels, playing of the bagpipes and choice selections by the Ivy Leaf quartet. The scenery is all new and elaborate, the scenic effects being realistic while the mechanical adjuncts are something startling to behold, among which is the flight of the eagle with a live child in its talons, the revolving castle, the interior and exterior of which is shown by mechanical appliances and a view of the lakes of Killarney by moonlight. The Ivy Leaf can safely be called an entirely new play throughout.

Lovers of the country and country life will be given an opportunity for enjoyment in the production of The County Fair at Wheeler's next week. This will be the first presentation of the play in Toledo. The County Fair's great success throughout the land is familiar to playgoers. It is essentially a story of the country and of country folk, and the scent of clover and the sheen of yellow corn permeates it. It is full of laughable episodes, and presents characters whose prototypes may be seen at any time in farm lands of New England. Abigail Prue, a spinster, adopts two waifs who aid her in relieving the mortgage from her farm by means of a speedy colt, Cold Molasses, who wins a race and secures a snug purse. This episode naturally introduces a great effect, viz., a real horse race, which is accomplished by means of Neil Burges' patented moving platforms. Already the electricians have arranged the stage for the reception of the mechanism, and this effect will be given in its entirety. The other realistic items will be well staged, and the lively husking bee, with all its singing and dancing, is promised as a feature.

Women with pale, colorless faces, who feel weak and discouraged, will receive both mental and bodily vigor by using Carter's Iron Pills which are made for the blood, nerves and complexion.

City Auditor's Office.

TOLEDO, O., Sept. 5, 1891.

THE COMMITTEE ON WAYS AND MEANS of the Common Council of the City of Toledo, Ohio, and the undersigned invite sealed proposals at this office up to

MONDAY, OCTOBER 5, 1891,

at 7 o'clock p. m. for the purchase of Street Improvement Bonds to the amount of seventy $7,100 ($7-100) dollars, bearing date Aug. 24, 1891, and payable as follows: Seven $7-100 dollars on Feb. 24, 1892, and seven dollars at the expiration of every six months thereafter to and including Aug. 24, 1896, at the office of the city treasurer, with interest at the rate of five (5) per cent per annum, payable semi-annually at the same place as evidenced by coupons to be attached to said bonds.

Said Improvement Bonds are issued pursuant to section 2704 to 2707 of the Revised Statutes of the State of Ohio, and also under an ordinance of the common council of the City of Toledo, Ohio, "To provide for the issue of Improvement Bonds to pay the cost and expense of the improvement of Empire Street, from Adams Street to Vermont Avenue"—passed Aug. 17th, 1891.

The denomination of these bonds will be first payment one bond of $7 37-100, and thereafter one of $7 each payment.

The said Bonds will be sold at not less than par and accrued interest to the highest bidder.

Bidders will be required to state the gross amount they will pay for the Bonds besides the accrued interest to date of delivery at Toledo, Ohio. They will also be required to deposit with each bid an amount of money or a certified check on some responsible bank equal to at least five (5) per centum of the par value of the Bonds so bid for as a guarantee of good faith, and that the bid so made (if successful) will be fulfilled in accordance with the terms thereof, and the requirements of the law and ordinances. When the bids have been examined and the award made according to law, all moneys or checks deposited as guarantees shall be returned to the depositor, or held by the City Auditor subject to his call, except that of the successful bidder, which shall be held and considered and accepted as part payment of the Bonds so awarded or sold, but should there be any repudiation of the contract or agreement, or refusal to accept and pay for the Bonds so sold, then and in that case the deposit shall be forfeited to the City of Toledo, and shall become the property of said city in compensation for loss and expenses attending the sale of said bonds and as liquidated damages for repudiation of bid. No bid will be received if not accompanied by money or check aforesaid.

The right is reserved to reject any or all bids. Proposals should be addressed to the "Auditor of the City of Toledo, Ohio," and be indorsed "Proposals for Improvement Bonds."

ANGEL GUESTS.

Oft they come in grand rotation
From that country fair and blest,
When the earth and all creation
Save my heart have sunk to rest.
Hosts of seraphims surround me
Wreathed in smiles divinely bright,
Keeping vigil all around me
In the lonely watch of night.

O, they press my lips and pity
Beams from out their tender eyes;
Then they tell me of a city
Free from pain, beyond the skies;
And my soul then longs to enter
That majestic home above,
Where sweet joys eternal center
And no theme is known save love.

Then they vanish; but another
Comes love's fondest joys to stir;
Dearer far than friend or brother
Is this heavenly messenger.
Face to face we meet in gladness,
Hand in hand our tryst we keep;
Thus my heart is hushed from sadness
And once more my sorrows sleep.

Oft I smoothed the raven tresses,
Kissed the brow as fair as snow;
Yielded to the sweet caresses
Of this darling, long ago.
Now, though space too vast for measure
Seeks to part us evermore,
God sends back my cherished treasure
To renew the joys of yore.

Oh, the holy guests from heaven!
How my soul drinks in their charms!
How my troubled heart at even
Leaps for solace to their arms!
And in silent awe I wonder
As around my couch they stand,
Shall I one day join their number,
Be an angel of their band?

Shall I leave the courts of glory,
Come unto this earth again,
View life's conflicts dark and gory,
Cheer the saddened hearts of men?
Shall I calm the wronged, the yearning,
As these blest ones calm me now?
Kiss fond lips with anguish burning,
Soothe some sorrowing weeper's brow?

Oh, I wonder! will the portals
Of that home divinely blest
Keep my soul with bright immortals,
Evermore in silent rest?
Or, will God, when arms elysian,
Bear me to that "higher birth,"
Send me on a holy mission
To console my loved of earth?

Defiance, O.

THE SONG OF THE GOLDENROD.

Oh, not in the morning of April or May,
When the young lights lies faint on the sod,
And the wild-flower blooms for the half of a day
Not then comes the Goldenrod.

But when the bright year has grown vivid and strong
With its utmost of beauty and strength,
Then it leaps into life, and its banners unfold
Along all the land's green length.

It is born in the glow of a great high noon,
It is wrought of a bit of the sun;
Its being is set to a golden tune,
In a golden summer begun.

No cliff is too high for its resolute foot,
No meadow too bare or too low;
It asks but the space for its fearless root,
And the right to be glad and to grow.

It delights in the loneliest waste of the moor,
And mock at the rain and the gust,
It belongs to the people. It blooms for the poor.
It thrives in the roadside dust.

It endures though September wax chill and unkind,
It laughs on the brink and the crag,
Nor blanches when forests turn white in the wind;
Though dying, it holds up its flag!

Its bloom knows no stint, its gold no alloy,
And we claim it forever as ours—
God's symbol of Freedom and world-wide Joy—
America's flower of flowers all!
—Grace Denio Litchfield, in St. Nicholas.

The housewife whom necessity or choice has kept at home all summer has missed not only the vacation she ought if possible to have had but also the deep pleasure of coming home again. It is often the pleasantest day of our outing, the day when we turn our faces homeward and when our thoughts fly faster than car wheels can ever revolve, and feet and hands are impatient to once more begin the routine which seems so delightful now, but was only a treadmill when we escaped from it. We were tired then; we are rested now. If only women would realize how truly rest when nature demands it is woman's first duty, what a golden change there would be. Martyrs are the most disagreeable things one can have around a house, and there is no martyr so wearing as the woman who has voluntarily sacrificed herself to overwork.

It is time all the truth was told upon this point, and women who can rest, but won't rest, should be made to rest. Only so shall we have happy homes with contented inmates, and get away from the dolors and the doctor's bill.

But the woman who wants to get home these first days of September, because she has been away, and been away as long as she needed to be, she is the creature to be envied. She wants to find the moths in the garret; to get down to the kitchen in her white apron and begin weighing, boiling, pickling, canning, preserving, and all, once more; to go into the dark pantry and see what is moulded and been forgotten; to go up to her guest chamber and see if the dog or cat, or any other forbidden quadruped or biped has been occupying it in her absence; to run down cellar and see what has gone to waste while she has been watching sunsets and sunrises again.

No doubt she will find all she looks for, moths in flannels and carpets, mould and waste in pantry and cellar; her tidies chewed up, and her crazy quilt mysteriously spotted. There has been housekeeping not of her pattern while she was not there to oversee, and little leakages that never occur when she is at home. But what are these small losses compared to the great gain of renewed strength and health which she can and will use right royally through the busy fall for those to whom she is queen consort, queen regnant? Vacations are good things to have, and, for none are they better than for the mother, wife and housekeeper. But vacation days are over, and now the busiest season of the year is upon us.

KEEPING HOUSE IN LONDON.

An American taking a house in London will learn at the outside that she will have to keep more servants in the old country than in the new, says Jean Gilmer Speed, in the Ladies' Home Journal. These servants are trained, and one who is willing to engage to do many things is usually willing to take such a position because she is incompetent in everything. A small family there would keep a cook, a chambermaid and a waitress. The washing would be put out and a charwoman would be called in once a week to help with a general cleaning and clearing up.

A very good cook can be had for $100 a year, a chambermaid for $60, and a smart waitress for $80. The charwoman will be paid 2 shillings, or 50 cents a day, and such a family will cost from $3 to $4 a week. In America such a family would have two women—one a cook, who would also wash and iron, and another as chambermaid and waitress.

The servants we have here do more, but they do it more roughly and are totally deficient in that silent subservience which makes the trained English domestic perform the usual household duties with automatic celerity. Generally you have to have a greater number of servants there than here, but wages are less and feeding costs less. There, the servants do not expect to eat just what is provided for the family. Not at all.

When the marketing is done, special things are bought for the servants, and they have a table of their own, the meals being served at a different hour and the quality of food much less in cost. They eat very little meat, most of it salt; the cheapest kind of fish, and then they have potatoes and greens and puddings with treacle. And they are provided with beer, unless in engaging servants it is stipulated that the engagement is "without beer."

WHICH WOULD YOU CHOOSE?

Sweet springtime of the human life, in its rapidly waning course, rousing the keen consciousness of the developing powers of youth, beauty and grace in the fair maiden, whom nature with partial favoritism has showered with charms of face and figure. Oh! lovely but ephemeral golden dawn! what dreams and hopes undefined, what pleasures and joys unalloyed as yet by disappointment and sorrow, crowd into thy short period of existence.

Loaded with the tribute paid her beauty the happy girl enters the portals of mature womanhood carrying her trophies chiefly culled from vanity and pride. Absorbed in frivolities with not a moment's time for contemplation and thought as to ever changing conditions of life, is it surprising these petted beauties never realize the mutability of everything under the sun and especially the evanescence of personal charms? The charms of mind more lasting and not perennial, they find no time to cultivate.

When in the zenith of their glory they chance to see a faded, aged woman, celebrated in days past for beauty, they seem utterly unable to realize that the same law of deterioration applies to their own life; that inexorable Time casts his stamp on the most divine countenance, bends the erect form of the most exquisitely shaped figure.

How many, thus poorly warned, are prepared to submit with resignation to inevitable fate? To step from the pedestal of the idol into the shadow of oblivion. How many will willingly turn to duties of home and motherhood, then guide uncomplainingly from the state of an old mother into that of a young grandmother?

But the less favored of our sex, plain looking and unnoticed, by law of compensation never have to fight the uneven battle against the ravages of age, know not the pangs of regret, and continue the even tenor of the serene, if obscure life of contentment. To these is given a dignity and self-pride and the commands respect; the well balanced mind, cultivated when others, more beautiful, gave their hours to trivial pastimes. Quite frequently it is the homely women who, in old age, is most beloved because of her modesty, sweet disposition and naturally acquired dignity.

Which, dear readers, of these two kinds of women would you prefer to be, could you choose for yourself?
Toledo. MRS. T. HEART.

THE LOTUS.

I visited the lotus bed in Grass lake last week and I think a description may be interesting to the members of the Household. Grass lake is a small lake in the northern part of Illinois, which, at this season of the year, appears to be covered with a vast field of grain, but in reality it is covered with wild rice, which grows taller than a man's head. Taking a steamer at a lower lake we pass for miles between banks of the wild rice until we reach a spot where over the bank of rice can be seen a strange green bed several acres in extent; on row boats we manage to push into the bed and find the lotus in full bloom.

The blossom of the lotus is cora color, three times the size of a white water lily and quite fragrant. It grows from one to three feet above the surface of the water on a stiff green stem. When the yellow petals drop off a yellow seed pod is left, which is larger at the top than at the bottom; this turns green and then brown. On the top of the seed pod are little knots which grow until about the size of a small acorn when they loosen from the cup and fall down part way, forming a very good rattle. The Indians are used to open the seeds and eat the meat as food.

The leaf of the lotus is perfectly round with no cut, as the white water lily has, and is twelve to fifteen inches across. It is sometimes found on the surface and sometimes two feet above the water. The top of the leaf looks like a nice green velvet and if a drop of water is put on it it will roll around without wetting the leaf at all. If the leaf is pushed three or four inches under the water it looks like a sheet of beaten silver.

The lotus blooms only during the month of August, and is found in but three or four places in the United States.
Chicago. NELLIE WILLEY.

This description of the lotus will be interesting to the flower-loving members of the Household. Many of our readers in Toledo and the immediate vicinity have seen it, as this is one of the few places in the United States where it is found. In its season the lotus blooms in profusion all along the Maumee river and in the marshes at the head of Lake Erie.

CHAT.

The Household welcomes a new contributor to-day in the author of the graceful verses, "Angel Guests." The underlying thought of the poem appeals to all who have loved and lost, and who through suffering have risen to a higher apprehension of the close relations between the two worlds separated only by "Gates Ajar."

Thanks to our Chicago member for the brief but comprehensive contribution concerning the lotus. It was Chat's privilege to glide over one of these lakes in northern Illinois in her company one day earlier in the present year. It was a beautiful day, a delightful trip always to be remembered with pleasure.

Our friend Mrs. Heart asks us which of two types of women we would choose to be. We suspect those of us who are twenty, if choice were really given, would be beautiful and admired, and take our chances on fading. Others of us who have passed the forty line may see with wiser eyes. We do not think our contributor means that all beautiful girls become frivolous women; only that the temptations they are more subject to than plainer girls tend to make them so, if not resisted.

"Our Barbara" writes Chat that she has spent a week in Brittany, and that all her trip abroad has been so far delightful. She has generously shared her experiences and observations with the BEE readers and we anticipate seeing Brittany and its peasants in an original light when Barbara's letter about them gets here.

BITS OF ADVICE TO GIRLS.

What to Avoid.

A loud, weak, affected, whining, harsh or shrill tone of voice.

Extravagances in conversation—such phrases as "awfully this," "beastly that," "loads of time," "don't you know," "hate" for "dislike," etc.

Sudden exclamations of annoyance, surprise and joy, such as "bother!" "gracious!" "how jolly!" Yawning when listening to any one.

Attempting any vocal or instrumental piece of music you cannot execute with ease.

Crossing your letters.

Making a short, sharp nod with the head intended to do duty as a bow.

What to Cultivate.

An unaffected, low, distinct, silver-toned voice.

The charm of making little sacrifices quite naturally, as if of no account to yourself.

The habit of making allowances for the opinions, feelings or prejudices of others.

An erect carriage, a sound body.

A good memory for faces, and facts connected with them, thus avoiding giving offense through not recognizing nor bowing to people, nor saying to them what had best be left unsaid.

The art of listening without impatience to prosy talkers, and smiling at the twice-told tale or joke.—Harper's Young People.

SEASONABLE RECIPES.

Catsup keeps better, and pickles also, if you put a bit of horseradish in the mouth of the bottle.

Peterson's cook book gives the following recipe for peach marmalade and brandy peaches.

MARMALADE—Pare and cut up the peaches in small pieces, and to a pound of fruit add a pound of sugar. When the sugar is dissolved set it over the fire and let it boil till it is a smooth paste. Stir it all the time it is boiling. Put it in the jars while warm and paste them over the next day.

BRANDY PEACHES.—Select white clingstone, known by the name of the "Heath peach." Make a hot lye of ashes and water, put in a few peaches at a time, and let them remain about a minute and a half, or until the skin will rub off with your finger. Take them out and throw them in a vessel of cold water; when all are done in this manner, rub off the skins with a cloth, and throw them in another vessel of cold water. Make a syrup of half a pound of sugar to a pound of fruit. Prepare it in the same manner as for preserves; put in your peaches, and let them boil until they are sufficiently tender to be easily pierced with a straw.

Take them out, and add to each pint of syrup a quart of the very best white brandy; when the fruit is cool put it in your jars, but leave plenty of room to fill them with the syrup, as if packed too closely they lose their shape.

The five following recipes, from the BEE's own cook book, are reprinted by request:

SPICED TOMATOES—To one-half dozen ripe tomatoes, peeled and sliced, add: One cup of brown sugar, one cup of vinegar, one teaspoonful each of cinnamon, allspice and cloves. Boil together for two hours. The same preparation, in larger quantities, with an ounce of ground black pepper added, should be poured over tomatoes that are spiced and put down in jars for winter use. In that case use rather small tomatoes, and let them stand over night sprinkled with salt before pouring the prepared vinegar over them. After they are cold the jar should be covered and tied closely, or sealed.

MIXED PICKLES.—Sprinkle salt over four quarts of finely chopped tomatoes, let them stand two hours, then drain them, and add: Four quarts of chopped cabbage, 1 quart of chopped onions, 4 chopped green peppers, 2 ounces of ground mustard, 1 ounce of ginger, ½ ounce of cloves, ½ ounce of mace, ½ ounce of cinnamon, 3 pounds of sugar, 1 ounce of celery seed, 3 ounces of turmeric powder. Cover it with vinegar, mix well, cover closer, and boil until done. Keep in closely covered jar, or seal.

PEAR PRESERVES.—Weigh the pears after they are pared, and to every pound add three-quarters of a pound of loaf sugar, water enough to keep them from burning, and the peel of a small lemon cut very thin. Let them stew gently for six or seven hours.

PLUM PRESERVES—After dividing the plums, and stoning them, sprinkle sugar over them, three-quarters of a pound to every pound of plums, and let them stand over night. Then next morning put in a porcelain kettle and let it simmer gently for 30 minutes; then boil quickly, removing the scum as it arises, and stir them constantly. Crack the stones and put the kernels into the preserves when they are cool. Place in stone, or glass jars and cover closely.

CRAB APPLE PRESERVES.—If Siberian crabs, wipe them only, if French, they must be pared. Put the apples in and let them simmer until they are done, into a boiling syrup, made from two pints of lump sugar, and one pint of cider. Reduce the syrup, and skim until it is thick enough, and pour it over the fruit which has been placed in earthern or glass jars.

BAKE 'EM.

M. E. M., of Hatfield, Mass., wrote to Good Housekeeping about baking cans, how she came to do it, and what a time she had of it. It is possible that there is a great deal for housekeepers in the adoption of the entomologist's plan. The letter is as follows:

It is now canning time, and I recently remarked to the wife of a microscopist and entomologist, that "though I had a cupboard full of empty cans, I could not use them and be sure their contents would keep unspoiled. I was obliged to buy new ones every year." She said she was "surprised at that." "Yes," I said, "I have faithfully tried the methods minutely detailed in Good Housekeeping, and yet, as a family, we are continually eating our canned fruits when we do not want them, because they are beginning to ferment."

She thought a moment and then replied: "My husband bakes his glass cans in a hot oven and also their lids. One germ left will spread and spoil all. Baking kills the germs. Having baked your cans and their lids and bought new rubbers for them, you will be as well off as if you bought new cans each year."

I tried the plan, putting half a dozen glass cans into a cold oven, then heating it as for bread. When I came to take them out, I did it too suddenly; the cold air cracked two or three and I found myself dancing around with a glass can wrapped in a towel in each hand, not daring to set it down.

The next time I set the cans in a dripping-pan, and when done drew them by degrees to the mouth of the oven, not taking them out till nearly cold. None of these broke, save one to which I touched a wet dishcloth, and it cracked with a loud explosion.

Bowls, or earthen vessels of any kind, in which sour milk has stood, may be treated the same way with success. Mere scalding will not destroy the bacteria; it needs a more prolonged heat to annihilate them.

SCRAP BASKET.

Please observe the latest fashion in girls' names. It is no longer "Bessie," says the Boston Herald, or "Margie" and other silly diminutives, but Elizabeth and Gretchen. Margaret is said to be in high favor just now.

Eyes grow dim: love's sight is clear.
Ears grow deaf: love still can hear.
Locks grow gray: love's hair is young.
Steps may falter: love hails not.
Hands may tremble: love's arm is firm.
Age is only for a day,
Love immortal is for aye.

Oilcloth in various forms has become such a common article of domestic use that a hint as to its care is opportune. Many people are unaware that oilcloths, and especially linoleum, should never be scrubbed with a hard brush. Neither should they be washed with hot water or soda. The best way is to use warm water and ordinary yellow soap and wipe thoroughly dry. An occasional rubbing over with a mixture of linseed oil and vinegar, after they have been well cleansed, is advisable, or they can be considerably brightened by a simple application of milk.

A new teacup is shaped like a trumpet flower standing in its leaf, which is the saucer. The natural colors are used, and the effect is warm and glowing.

THE MASTER OF THE HOUSE

He cannot walk, he cannot speak,
Nothing he knows of books or men;
He is the weakest of the weak,
And has no strength to hold a pen.
He has no pocket and no purse,
Nor ever yet has owned a penny,
But has more riches than his nurse,
Because he wants not any.

He rules his parents by a cry,
And holds them captive by a smile;
A despot strong through infancy.
A king from lack of guile
He lies upon his back and crows,
Or looks with grave eyes on his mother;
What can he mean? But I suppose
They understand each other.

In doors and out, early and late,
There is no limit to his sway;
For, wrapt in baby robes of state,
He governs night and day.
Kisses he takes as rightful due,
And Turk-like has his slaves to dress him:
His subjects bend before him, too:
I'm one of them. God bless him.
—Washington Star.

Miss Theo Alice Ruggles is only 20 years old, yet she is the favorite sculptor of cultured Boston. The Shakespeare statue for the city of Providence, R. I, will be her work, her recently finished model being more than ordinarily acceptable.

An Italian duchess, the Duchess Bolognini, who has recently lost her husband and son, has sold her jewels for $100,000 and given the proceeds to the children's department of the Milan hospital, in memory of her son.

In all the public schools of Australia girls enjoy the same advantages as boys, and it is said the young women of that country are remarkably bright, sensible and "taking." In the United States women's names appear this year for the first time in the list of vice-presidents and on the board of directors of the National Educational association. As 81 per cent. of all the public school teachers of the country are women these places on the educational association would seem to come to the sex naturally.

A NARROW ESCAPE.

How the Russians Were Outwitted.

On the second day after our arrival in Krasnoyarsk we narrowly escaped getting into what might have been serious trouble as the result of an unexpected perquisition in the house of the acquaintance with whom Shamarin and Peterson were staying. This acquaintance, it seemed, was under suspicion, and late in the evening, during the absence of the two young men from their quarters, the police suddenly appeared with orders to make a house-search. The search was duly made, but nothing of a suspicious nature was found except the well locked trunks of Shamarin and Peterson. In reply to a question as to what was in them the proprietor of the house said that he did not know, that they were the property of two of his acquaintances who had stopped for a few days with him on their way to Irkutsk to St. Petersburg. Upon being asked where these acquaintances were, he replied that he did not know, that they usually went out after dinner and rturned between eleven and twelve o'clock. After a brief consultation the police officers decided that as they had no order to search the personal baggage of the house-owner's guests they would not force the locks of the trunks, but would merely cord and seal them so that the contents could not be tampered with and leave them until morning.

When Shamarin and Peterson returned to their quarters about midnight they found their trunks corded and sealed so that they could not be opened. In one of them were many letters from political exiles and convicts in Eastern Siberia to friends and relatives in European Russia—letters describing my investigations and the nature of the material that I was collecting and asking the friends of myself that I had given to Shamarin with a dedication or inscription on the back and would reveal to any intelligent police officer the intimate nature of my relations with political convicts. What was to be done? To break a police seal under such circumstances would be a penal offense, and would probably lead to imprisonment and an investigation. To leave the letters and photograph in the trunk would be to insure their discovery and confiscation on the following morning, and that might create a very embarrassing situation for me, as well as for the authors of the letters and their friends. The two young men finally concluded to make an attempt to get the trunk open without removing the cords or breaking the seals, and as the letters and photograph were near the bottom, and as the lid could not be raised even if the trunk were unlocked, they decided to take out a part of the bottom and afterward replace it. By working all the rest of the night they succeeded in getting out one of the bottom boards, obtained the dangerous letters and the photograph, put the board back without disturbing any of the seals, and when the police came in the morning stood by with unruffled serenity and saw the trunks searched. Of course nothing more dangerous than a hair-brush, and nothing more incriminating than a hotel bill could be found.—George Kennan in the Century.

Special Masters' Sale

United States of America, Northern District of Ohio.

The Central Trust Company of New York Complainant, vs. The Cincinnati, Jackson & Mackinaw Railroad Company and others, Defendants. Consolidated Causes. In the Circuit Courts of the United States for the Northern District of Ohio, Western division, and for the Southern District of Ohio, Western Division, and for the Eastern District of Michigan, and for the Western District of Michigan, Southern Division. In equity.

Notice is hereby given that in pursuance of a decree of the Circuit Court of the United States for the Northern District of Ohio, Western Division, entered in the above entitled cause on June 3, 1891, and of a decree of the Circuit Court of the United States for the Southern District of Ohio, Western Division, entered in the above entitled cause on July 1, 1891, and of a decree of the Circuit Court of the United States for the Eastern District of Michigan, entered in the above entitled cause on June 29, 1891, and of a decree of the Circuit Court of the United States for the Western District of Michigan, Southern Division, entered in the above entitled cause on June 30, 1891, we, Benjamin F. Wade and Hiram F. Carleton, the Special Masters designated by said decrees, will sell without appraisement, at public auction, to the highest bidder or bidders, in the United States Court room, in the City of Toledo, County of Lucas, and state of Ohio, at three o'clock, P. M. on the 16th day of October, 1891, the said agreed premises and property mentioned in said decree, and thereby directed to be sold. The same will be sold in the manner and upon the terms hereinafter stated, viz:

1. Said Special Masters will offer for sale separately that portion of the property of the Cincinnati, Jackson & Mackinaw Railroad company known as the Central Division, being the property described in the first mortgage of the Cincinnati, Van Wert & Michigan Railroad company, dated April 14, 1881, together with the proportion of equipment, material and supplies appertaining to such Division which upon the foreclosure of said mortgage, said decrees, shall be decreed by the court to properly belong to the same, and to be covered by said mortgage. Said property will be offered for sale as an entirety, without appraisement or redemption. No bid will be accepted therefor from any bidder for a sum less than $150,000, nor from any bidder who shall not, if requested by said Special Masters, place in their hands, or deposit with them, as a pledge that he will make good his bid, if accepted by the Court, the sum of $15,000 in cash, or first mortgage bonds of said Cincinnati, Van Wert & Michigan Railroad company to the amount of $100,000 of principal. Said special Masters will offer for sale separately the property covered by and embraced in the consolidated mortgage of the Cincinnati, Jackson & Mackinaw Railroad company, dated December 1, 1888, excluding the said Central Division above described, together with the proportion of equipment, material and supplies appertaining to the same which upon the foreclosure ordered in said decrees, shall be decreed by the Court to properly belong to the same, and to be covered by said Consolidated Mortgage. Said property (excluding the Central Division) will be sold as an entirety, without appraisement or redemption. No bid will be accepted therefor from any bidder for a sum less than $450,000, nor from any bidder who shall not, if requested by the Special Masters, place in their hands, or deposit with them, as a pledge that he will make good his bid, if accepted by the Court, the sum of $25,000 in cash, or Consolidated Mortgage Bonds to the amount of $250,000 of principal.

The said Special Masters will use their discretions in respect to which separate parcel shall be first offered for sale.

After having offered said properties for sale separately, as foresaid, said Special Masters will then offer the entire property covered by said Consolidated Mortgage, including said Central Division, for sale as one parcel, without appraisement or redemption, and if the highest bid received by them for the same shall exceed the aggregate amount of the highest bids for the two parcels when offered separately, then the whole will be struck off and sold as an entirety to the person making such bid for the whole. No bid for said property as an entirety will be accepted from any bidder for a sum less than $600,000, nor from any bidder who shall not, if requested by said Special Masters, place in their hands or deposit with them, as a pledge that he will make good his bid, if accepted by the Court, the sum of $40,000 in cash, or Van Wert First Mortgage Bonds, or Consolidated Mortgage Bonds or both, of the amount of $250,000 of principal. The purchaser or purchasers at such sale may, if he or they so elect, be subrogated to the rights of Waiston H. Brown, Receiver, under a certain agreement between said Receiver and the Haskell & Barker Car Company, dated January 18, 1890, for purchase of equipment, upon assuming his liabilities under the same.

Of the price for which said properties shall be sold, there shall be paid in cash, at the time of the sale, a sum equal to the amount cash deposit hereinbefore required, and also, at the same time and from time to time thereafter, such further portions of said purchase price as the Court may direct; and the Court reserves the right to reject any bid, and to take and to sell said premises and property upon failure of any purchaser for twenty days to comply with any order of the Court requiring payment. The balance of the purchase price not required to be paid in cash may either be paid in cash, or the purchaser entitled to and make good said balance of his bid, in whole or in part, by paying over the outstanding First Mortgage Bonds and overdue coupons, or either, the outstanding Income Bonds, and the outstanding Consolidated Mortgage Bonds, and overdue coupons, or either, at such price or value as shall be equivalent to the amount that the holders thereof would be entitled to receive thereon, in case the entire purchase price were paid in cash. The foregoing provisions shall be applicable, whether the said properties be sold in separate parcels, or as a unit. If any bid shall be accepted by the court, and the person making the same shall fail to comply with all the conditions of sale and all orders of the court with respect thereto, the sum deposited by the bidder shall be forfeited, and shall be applied as the court may direct.

Reference is hereby made to said decrees for a more specific description of the mortgaged property therein ordered to be sold, and for further particulars of the terms and conditions of sale. BENJAMIN F. WADE,
HIRAM F. CARLETON,
Special Masters.

Wheat Quotations for the Day—Price-Current for Produce and Other Articles.

The market quotations in the BEE are compiled from United Press special dispatches and from reports received by the Toledo Produce Exchange, and specially arranged by Mr. Denison B. Smith, secretary of the Exchange.

OFFICE OF THE TOLEDO BEE, TOLEDO, O., Sept. 5.

Notice—Toledo, New York, Chicago, St. Louis and Detroit market will adjourn over from Saturday until Tuesday, September 8, on account of Labor day.

London wheat market slow and dull. Weather better. Liverpool wheat dull; corn firm.

The receipts of wheat to-day at seven principal western points are 1,120,600 bu, compared with 350,005 bu on the same day last year.

Chicago Lake Freights—Were firmer with an active demand for vessel room at 3@3¼c for wheat, 2½@3c for corn and rye to Buffalo.

Our advices herein indicate some losses to corn in Wisconsin, Iowa, Minnesota and Illinois.

The receipts of wheat to-day at seven principal western points are 770,545 bu in excess of thecorresponding Saturday in 1890.

The receipts of grain for the week at eight principal western points are wheat, 7,384,000 bu; corn, ,615,000 bu; oats, 3,543,000 bu. In the corresponding week in 1890, wheat, 2,049,000 bu; corn, 2,498,000 bu; oats, 2,635,-000 bu.

The receipts of wheat this week exceed last week 847,000 bu, and is increased by northwestern receipts.

The export clearances yesterday at four Atlantic ports were 782,272 bu, and flour to an aggregate of 575,000 bu.

The exports for the week at the same ports were 3,798,000 bu of wheat, besides flour and 847,000 bu of corn. The exports of wheat n previous week were 3,606,000 bu.

English markets as reported herein are dull and a shade lower.

The wheat and corn markets of this country have been exceedingly dull to-day. As Monday is a holiday dealers do not care to trade much, as both sides are now timid, Chicago dealers, as usual, are working all manners of roots to depress markets. To-day a Paris house is selling there, and it will be something else some other day. What the Paris man sells he will want to buy back ere long at a round loss, most likely, and here's hoping he will.

It has been an uninteresting market, and prices are somewhat lower.

In New York at 12 o'clock, September wheat closed at a loss of ¼c, and December at a loss of ⅜c. September corn gained ¼c, and October lost ⅜c.

In Chicago September wheat closed at a loss of ⅜c, December at loss of ¼ and ⅜c; September corn at loss of ⅜c and October at loss of ½c in Toledo. Business has been very light again to-day and much of the dullness was attributable to Monday's holiday. Prices have been a little easier, and there was no pressure to sell wheat. December closed where it did yesterday. On the call December wheat sold at $1 03@1 03¼ and May at $1 09¾. After the call September sold at 99¼ and closed at 99½c; October sold at $1 00¼; December at $1 03¾; May about $1 09¾.

Cash wheat was in only moderate demand, and the business reported was lighter. No 2 soft sold at 99¼c to 99¾c, and at close about 99¾ was the price, a loss of ¼c; No 3 soft at 97¼; rejected No 1 at 86; No 2 white at 94½; rejected white at 86.

Corn—No 2 at 67c; No 3 at 66c.

Oats—No 2 white at 33¾c.

Rye—No 2 cash and September opened at 93; and closed at 93½c; No 3 at 91.

Cloverseed—On the call October sold at $4 77½. After the call October at $4 80; December at $4 82½. Old prime for cash at $4.60.

SOME RAILROAD AUDITORS

Who Dropped in to Toledo Yesterday.

A Fleeting Glance at Some of Their Characteristics and a Good Story on the Colonel.

Among the official list of the officers of a railroad company it is doubtful if there is a more important officer than a traveling auditor, and whose movements and duties are so little known to the reading public. Not only must he be a man quick and correct at figures but of a noble bearing, prepossessing habits, handsome and healthy. He must have a keen eye, ready conception and fascinating manners. He must be a man with but few words, for that he says in the hearing of a ticket agent is law. "When he walks the street the law walks the street." His business is directly with the ticket agent; gentlemen highly educated in the art of finding the lowest rate, shortest mileage and the most direct route to the hearts of the dear public—an agent must be ready at all times and hours, with open pocket books, to receive these quiet, mysterious moving, modest officials. "Here to-day, and gone to-morrow" is their motto. They are judges of good cigars, often recognize a square meal and can be picked out in any crowd by the great variety, in color and size, of lead pencils in their vest pockets—used in checking. The red or blue check marks upon the stubs in a coupon ticket case, and of which the public often question the agent about, are the results of these silent experts, who seem to delight in telling the ticket agent: "I hope you will remove the checks before my next visit by selling the tickets." The agent looks blandly at the disfigured tickets and timidly responds: "I hope so."

Away from the turmoils of business, outside of the hum and whistle of a busy, active life—the sober, thoughtful look vanishes like a dream, their hats become straightened, their tongues are untied and a happier class of people seldom moves in perfumed circles. Yesterday an avalanche of these distinguished silent wanderers parachuted into the Union depot ticket office headed by Col. John E. Slater, who had gotten scarcely beyond the wire door until his derby fell into its usual business position. Then followed Charlie Whitmore, silent, solemn and sedate. Capt. Greenaich, of the Wabash, who was never known to have a sharp knife, Lieut. Phillips, of the F. & P. M., who has a record of catching more fish along his line than any one man in the state, General Cook, of the C., H. & D., a man of but few words but ever ready to defend the picturesqueness of the famous Miami valley. It is said that Cook is anxious to level the great mound at Miamisburg, built by the aboriginals, and is only waiting for Passenger Agent Sanford to say "when."

Capt. Arthur, of the Clover Leaf, don't bank much on stature, but everybody who knows him says he gets there just the same. Naturally, while sharpening led pencils, some one always tells a story or relates an experience. Col. Slater had a business experience he thought too good to keep to himself. Detroit is his home, his fair complexion is attributed to clear water he drinks, and his good nature to local climatic influences, having more pocket money than he thought safe to carry, he concluded to invest in an elegant home—selecting a healthy district, aristocratic locality, a modern house with railroad stations in the immediate vicinity, large lot, surroundings free from obstructions and a beautiful stretch of landscape leading away as far as the eye could reach. All these qualifications the colonel at last found, in an ideal spot and soon was ensconsed in as fine a villa as mortal could wish for. He was happy—supremely happy—until one day some enterprising man built a slaughter house on the lot adjoining. This is the story the colonel tells on himself.

CINCINNATI EXCURSIONS

Via C., H. & D., at one cent per mile on September 11, 12 and 13. The rates will apply from all points on the C., H. & D. R. R. on September 11 and 12, and tickets will be good returning September 13, the occasion for this cheap rate being the dedication of the Old Fellows' hall, which, when completed, will be one of the finest buildings in the state. Pain's great spectacle, "The Last Last Days of Pompeii," given under the auspices of the Order of Cincinnatus, the Latonia Jockey club races and the Zoo concerts are among the other attractions Cincinnati offers at this time. Ask your agent for further information and rates or address E. O. McCormick, Gen. P. & T. agent, Cincinnati.

Excursion to Petoskey and Traverse City leaves Toledo via F. & P. M. R. R. 12 Monday night, September 7. Fare for the round trip $5. Tickets good 10 days. For tickets and further information apply Gates' ticket office, Boody house, or Union depot.

Dr. Clark, the Botanic Specialist,

Has been years at his Toledo office Parlors. I practice no longer, advertising quacks, who infest our city for a few months and with their accumulated spoils depart.

Dr. Clark cures syphilis, gonorrhœa, loss of manhood and power, spermatorrhœa, gravel, emissions, cancers sores, liver, kidneys and blood diseases.

Special diseases of both men and women positively cured. Dr. Clark is the only botanic specialist in the state. If you mean business and want to be cured call and see us and have a friendly talk, and see what can be done for you. If not you probably will fall into the hands of an advertising charlatan or a home physician that is incompetent. Dr. Clark has no spare time to lose, but every case has a thorough examination so you can accept or reject. We are the friends of all sufferers. Dr. C. G. CLARK, Toledo, O., next to Hotel Hamilton.
